POWERS TO PROTECT SUEZ

PEACE OR WAR FOR WORLD?

World peace teeters in balance today in the Negev Desert (black triangle), where Egyptian and Israeli armies are locked in fighting near Suez Canal. (NEA Newsmap.)

Desert Fight Rages

Paratroopers Dropped

(At London, Prime Minister Eden told parliament that paratroopers had been dropped in the area of the Suez Canal but he did not say whether they were Egyptians or Israelis. He said the air forces of both Egypt and Israel had been active in the neighborhood of the canal).

Egyptian President Nasser was reported to have ordered a general mobilization as the fighting looked more and more like war.

In a communique, the Egyptians claimed they had "annihilated" an Israeli force west of Nakhl, about 70 miles inside of Egypt.

70-Mile Front

Israeli military spokesmen at Tel Aviv announced the capture of the Egyptian position of Qusaima, about 20 miles inside the Egyptian border.

Earlier, a two-pronged attack from Kuntilla and the head of the Gulf of Aqaba, far to the south, had been reported without confirmation to have driven almost across the peninsula to within 18½ miles of the Suez Canal.

Planes Downed

A Cairo communique said that the Egyptian Air Force shot down two Israeli aircraft, destroyed 12 Israeli armored cars and strafed Israeli troops.

These attacks were said to have taken place at El Themed, 30 miles inside Egypt from the Kuntilla jump-off point, and against Israeli troops "before the Egyptian position at Quasaima."

Tel Aviv military spokesmen announced that the Israeli Air Force also had gone into action and had attacked Egyptian convoys.

Israeli's 1,800,000 population faced a blackout tonight.

The Syrians also were reported by Damascus newspapers to have ordered a state of general mobilization. Anti-aircraft guns were erected in the Syrian capital.

CAIRO (AP)—An Egyptian army communique claimed it had "annihilated" Israeli troops west of El Themed, Sinai desert post 3 0miles inside the Egyptian frontier. The communique added: "Mopping up operations against enemy troops in the rest of the battle area is continuing."

U.S. Women, Children Leave

WASHINGTON—Press officer Lincoln White said that evacuation of U.S. citizens from Egypt is proceeding on a basis of women and children first as rapidly as transportation facilities will permit. With airports at Cairo and Tel Aviv closed, the U.S. is seking permission from the Egyptian and Israeli governments to allow rescue aircraft to land.

Israeli Planes Attack Egyptians

U.S. Naval Force on Secret Mission

THE HAGUE (AP)—An American naval force today was ordered to break off a visit to the Netherlands and leave for a secret destination.

The ships are those of the United States Atlantic fleet's "hunter killer" group No. 2. They include the aircraft carrier Antietam, six destroyers, two submarines and a tanker. The force arrived in Rotterdam oMnday for a four-day visit.

Stock Market Still Skidding

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market retreated further today on news of the Israeli drive into Egypt. Within minutes after the opening, a burst of sell orders forced the highspeed ticker tape to run two minutes late. The tempo of trading slackened substantially after the first half hour.

Britain, France Deliver Warning; Forces Are Ready

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain and France today warned Israel and Egypt to withdraw their military forces 10 miles from the Suez Canal within 12 hours or Anglo-French troops would move into the zone "in whatever strength may be necessary to secure compliance."

British Prime Minister Eden revealed to a tense House of Commons that the warnings were sent to Tel Aviv and Cairo after his meeting here at noon with French Premier Guy Mollet.

. . . 'Will Intervene'

Eden also disclosed that Britain and France had asked Egypt to agree that Anglo-French forces should in any case move temporarily to key positions in the canal zone.

Eden said the communications to Israel and Egypt also called upon them to "stop all warlike action by land, sea and air forthwith." He said the two governments had been asked to reply "by the early hours tomorrow morning" but, he added, "I hope they will reply tonight."

A foreign office spokesman said the ultimatum will expire at 4.30 a.m. tomorrow (8.30 p.m. Tuesday, Victoria Time).

Eden also said that Israel assured the British ambassador in Tel Aviv Monday that Israeli forces would not attack Jordan.

Britain and France sent the 12-hour warning to Israel and Egypt less than 24 hours after the Israeli attack had been launched.

"It has been made clear to them that, if at the expiration of that time, one or both have not undertaken to comply with these requirements, British and French forces will intervene in whatever strength may be necessary to secure compliance," Eden said.

Eden said that Israeli forces had penetrated deep into Egyptian territory and reports had been received indicating that paratroops had been dropped.

"I must tell the House that very grave issues are at stake and unless hostilities can quickly be stopped free passage through the canal will be jeopardized."

. . . 'Stop All War Action'

Eden said the British and French governments have agreed everything possible should be done to bring hostilities to an end as quickly as possible.

Eden said that in the communications to the governments of Egypt and Israel the British and French governments "called upon both sides to stop all warlike action by land, sea and air forthwith and to withdraw their military forces to a distance of 10 miles from the canal."

Further, "in order to separate the belligerents and to guarantee freedom of transit through the canal by the ships of all nations, we have asked the Egyptian government to agree that Anglo-French forces should move temporarily into key positions at Port Said, Ismailia and Euez. The governments of Egypt and Israel have been asked to answer this communication within 12 hours."

The prime minister's announcement was greeted with cheers.

Russia, U.S. Denounce Israel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Russia and the United States joined today in demanding that the UN Security Council order the immediate withdrawal of Israeli forces from Egyptian territory.

At the same time, Russia called on the council to warn Britain and France against any military intervention in the Israeli-Egyptian conflict.

Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev read a news dispatch from London saying Britain and France had agreed their forces would occupy key positions in the Suez Canala area unless Israel and Egypt stop fighting within 12 hours.

This, Sobolev said, was a pretext for sending their troops into the area.

U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. appealed to all countries to refrain from giving Israel any assistance, but he did not refer specifically to the British-France move.

The delegates, one after the other, denounced Israel's action as clear-cut aggression and urged the council to act quickly to end the fighting.

'Premeditated Move' Says Egypt

Egyptian Ambassador Omar Loutfi called the Israeli attack a premeditated move designed to "bring about war" in the Middle East. He demanded that Israel be expelled from the UN.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban said he wanted to reserve his right to speak later. He said:

"I am still at this moment without complete information on the course of these operations and information from Jerusalem is reaching me at this time."

Lodge told the council the U.S. would present a formal proposal at another meeting of the council this afternoon calling for an immediate end of the hostilities and withdrawal of the Israeli forces.

He appealed to all members of the council to refrain from giving Israel any assistance or from taking "advantage of the

Ike Stops Politicking To Deal With Crisis

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower Eisenhower today cancelled his scheduled campaign trip to the southwest and south Wednesday because of the Middle East crisis.

Mr. Eisenhower was to have made airport speeches at Dallas, Tex., Oklahoma City, Okla., and Memphis, Tenn., Wednesday. But he telegraphed his supporters at all three cities and said he must remain at the White House.

"The turn of events yesterday leaves me no option, in the interest of worikng for peace, but to remain at the White House Wednesday to deal with the situation developing in the Middle East," Mr. Eisenhower said.

Monday night in asharp attack on Eisenhower, Democratic candidate Adlai Stevenson charged that President Eisenhower's previous reports of "good news" from the Isralei-Egyptian area "have been tragically less than the truth. In a national network television broadcast, Stevenson recalled that Eisenhower had announced "good news" from the Middle East only a few days ago.

GET OUT OF BUDAPEST IN 12 HOURS

Hungary Ultimatum Given Russ Troops

BUDAPEST (AP) — The Hungarian Air Force tonight threatened to attack the Russian forces unless they leave Budapest within 12 hours.

The people of Hungary today were promised a coalition government of "all democratic parties" and free Western-style elections, ending Hungary's nine years of Communist rule.

For the first time since the Communists took over the country in an armed coup in 1947, the government will include non-Communist parties—among them the Conservative smallholders and Social Democrats.

Premier Imre Nagy, the "Titoist" Communist leader swept into power at the height of the fighting last week, announced the end of one-party rule and a return to the coalition system.

'Will Be Called to Account'—Nagy

Nagy also declared that he had nothing to do with the decision a week ago to call in Soviet troops to put down the rebellion. He said the decision was taken by Communist party chief Ernoe Geroe, who has since been dismissed, and Andras Hegedues who preceded Nagy as premier.

Nagy said Geroe and Hegedues will be "called to account before the nation."

As complete victory appeared in the grasp of the anti-Russian, anti-Communist rebels, there were ominous reports of Soviet troops and several columns of Russian tanks moving on Budapest from southeastern Hungary.

Another report was that Soviet tank reinforcements were moving into Hungary from the Soviet Union through northeastern Hungary.

Dr. Zoltan Tildy, Hungarian President until the Communist takeover, followed Nagy to the microphone to announce that Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, convicted eight years ago of anti-state activities, would be restored fully to his office as primate of Hungary.

In his address, Premier Nagy appealed to the people to stand behind the "national government." He assured them that all the wrongs which had occurred since 1945 would be put right.

REBEL STRONGHOLD

Fighting slacked off at the Maia Terezia barracks, a rebel strongpoint in a week of civil war. Insurgents who had held out against Soviet tank fire marched out defiantly this morning and announced they would not put down their arms until the Russians have left Budapest.

Five Soviet tanks were still parked about 500 yards from the barracks. The government controlled radio had promised the Russians would start pulling back to their Hungarian bases at 9 a.m. "after insurgent forces start surrendering their arms." That hour passed without confirmation of any general withdrawal.

REBELS FIGHT ON

Correspondents entering the region asked the rebels why they were still fighting in the capital on the seventh day of the revolt after repeated offers of amnesty from the Nagy government.

"We are not interested in anything but that the Russkies should go home," came the unanimous reply.

Most of the insurgents in the area were youths around 20. Armed with only antiquated rifles, sub-machine-guns, and home-made gasoline bombs, they were able to hold out against the tank attacks because of their knowledge of the battleground. When the Russian fire grew too heavy, the rebels vanished into the maze of streets too narrow for tanks to penetrate.

With the Budapest holdouts were an unknown number of deserters from the Hungarian Army.

POLES FIRE RUSSIAN AIR CHIEF

LONDON (Reuters)—Gen. Ivan Turkiel, Russian commander of Poland's air force, has been dismissed, Warsaw radio announced tonight.

situation for any selfish interest."

"Failure of the council to react at this time," Lodge said, "would be a clear avoidance of its responsibilities for the maintenance of international peace and security."

Jordan formally urged the council to end the fighting. At the same time, Jordan warned that it would go to the aid of Egypt in fulfillment of its treaty obligations.

The United Nations, which requested the council meeting, was reported considering asking UN members to take major economic and diplomatic reprisals against the Israelis.

State Secretary Dulles asked France and Britain to join in seeking council action. The Western Big Three, under a 1950 declaration, are joint guarantors of the Arab-Israeli demarcation lines.

The British informant said Prime Minister Eden's government was standing fully by the letter and spirit of the 1950 declaration, and was ready to join the United States and France in implementing it. To aid the Egyptians, Britain has available the air, land and sea forces she rushed to the eastern Mediterranean when President Nasser seized the Suez Canal.

Officials hoped Israel might back down before counter-attacks by Jordan, Egypt and othe rcountries turn the limited fighting into a full-scale conflict.

Alarmed authorities conceded, however, that it might already be too late to patch up the jittery peace between Israel and its Arab foes.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Hotel Groups Split Over Beer Profits

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—The activities of what was called "another group in recent convention" was criticized here Monday by Fred Evans of Vancouver, president of the Hotel Operators and Innkeepers' Society of British Columbia.

He said the group's activities, seeking public endorsement of their "never-ending pursuit of more beer profits," had brought the whole hotel industry into public ridicule."

The selling of beer was, to the true hotel operator, merely one department in his whole operation, said Mr. Evans. Costs had gone up, but under prevailing conditions there was a worthwhile profit in the operation of public house licences.

At a recent convention here members of the B.C. Hotelmen's Association urged, because of high operating costs, a smaller beer glass to offset the higher costs.

The hotel operators and innkeepers' society represents 25 top hotels in the province, Mr. Evans said. It represents ownership of properties valued at more than $70,000,000.

Victoria Tug Gets New Tow In Pacific

The Victoria-based deep-sea salvage tug Ss. Sudbury today is outward bound, instead of homeward bound, far out in the Pacific, after reversing course to aid another towboat.

On Saturday, the Sudbury, owned by Island Tug & Barge, reached the Salvage Chief of Portland to aid her in towing a salvaged freighter, the Nozima Maru, to Japan.

Sudbury had been on her way back to this port after towing scrap steel to Japan. She had made about 2,000 miles of the return journey when she turned to the assistance of the Salvage Chief.

The Nozima Maru was sunk by bombing during the Second World War, near Kiska. The crew of the Portland tug raised her, but found difficulty making headway with the heavy tow, and messaged for assistance.

MIDDLE EAST CRISIS LEGAL TANGLE

(AP and UP Dispatches)

LONDON — Under Egypt's 1954 agreement with Britain for evacuation of the Suez Canal zone, Britain has the right to reoccupy her former zone bases in case the waterway and Egypt itself are threatened by attack.

But the two agreed, outside the published text of the treaty, that the clause would be invoked only in case of an attack by the Soviet Union.

The legal authority that would permit Britain to reoccupy its Suez Canal bases is contained in article 4 of the Anglo-Egyptian agreement.

It says: "In the event of an armed attack by an outside power on any country which . . . is a party to the Arab League states treaty of defence of 1950, or on Turkey, Egypt shall afford to Britain such facilities as may be necessary in order to place the base on a war footing and to operate it effectively."

An authoritative source said Britain fully stands by the letter and spirit of a 1950 American-British-French declaration on the Middle East and is prepared to join the U.S. and France in implementing it.

The declaration binds the Western Big Three immediately to "take action both within and without the United Nations" to prevent any Israeli or Arab violation of Middle East frontiers or armistice lines.

Egypt theoretically could call on the Big Three Western powers for help. But Egypt never recognized the 1950 declaration and might feel too politically proud to make such a call.

Professor at Lunch Meeting Predicts War as It Starts

As a Victoria College professor here Monday was predicting a war in the Middle East within a week, a full scale conflict broke out between Israel and Egypt.

Prof. Neil Swainson, speaking at the Gyro Club luncheon on the "Suez Situation," suggested that a war would be "timed" to break out in the Middle East before the presidential elections were held in the United States.

He was unaware at the time that Israel had actually attacked Egypt, and his prediction had come true.

When informed of the war after the meeting, Mr. Swainson said he knew it would happen as past events all pointed in that direction.

"It's a tragedy," he said. "It has come at a time when politicians in the United States won't dare commit themselves because of the forthcoming elections."

He felt that both President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson should immediately adopt a common foreign policy in the interest of world peace.

In his address before the club on the "Suez Problem", Mr. Swainson suggested that the United Nations "enforce" a policy for maintaining peace in the troubled Middle East zone. His suggestions were:

1. The boundaries of Israel should be stabilized and clearly defined.

2. The United Nations should guarantee to the Arab world that the Israel boundaries would not be changed.

3. Jerusalem and Bethlehem should be made international cities under the jursidiction of the United Nations.

4. The 300,000 Arab refugees in the Gaza strip should be resettled in adjoining Arab states.

5. Britain and the United States should provide funds to develop the resources of the Arab states as compensation for accepting the Gaza strip refugees.

6. A United Nations zone should be established between Israel and Egypt to stabilize conditions between the two countries.

7. Israel also should co-operate in finding homes for the Arab refugees.

Speaking on Egypt, Mr. Swainson said the power of President Nasser should not be under-estimated. He has the support of all Arab nations, as well as non-committal countries in South Asia, he said.

Nasser, he explained, has appealed to the imagination of the Arabs, who are dreaming of recreating an Arab power, such as existed in the 8th and 9th centuries.

BREWING SINCE '49

Background To Battle

LONDON (Reuters) — Monday night's attack by Israeli forces on Egyptian positions is the first major penetration of Egypt in the seven years of uneasy peace since Israeli forces held and threw back the combined armies of the Arab League.

Border clashes throughout the years have been stepped up in the last few months with battles between Israeli troops and Jordanians and Egyptians.

Both sides have used the "breathing space" since hostilities ended in 1949 to build up their forces.

Estimates of present - day strength vary, but the most recent indicate that Israel can mobilize 250,000 men and women in 48 hours. The Arab states have a combined strength of 165,000 men. Egypt would supply about 100,000 of them.

Red Influenced

The most significant change in the Middle East situation since the 1949 cease-fire has been the entry of Communist influence on the scene.

In a sudden move in September, 1955, Czechoslovakia agreed to supply Egypt with weapons. Western officials say they included about 200 MiG fighters, 100 tanks, six submarines and artillery.

The United States, Britain and France signed a tripartite declaration May 25, 1950, undertaking to guarantee the existing territorial boundaries should there be any attempt to revise them by force.

The United Nations has tried to keep the peace between both sides along the Arab-Israeli borders.

Working under Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, 59-year-old Canadian chief of the truce-supervision organization, 50 United Nations truce observers have patrolled the frontier, investigating breaches of the 1949 agreements.

The plight of 700,000 Arab refugees from Palestine in the neighboring countries and the fact that Israel's borders were extended after the 1948-49 war aggravated Arab-Israel tension.

The area of conflict skirts the southeast corner of the Mediterranean, where Israel proclaimed herself a Jewish state May 15, 1948, a few hours before Britain gave up her mandate after 28 years.

The country is sandwiched between Arab states. Lebanon lies directly north, Syria is in the northeast corner, Jordan runs along the eastern frontier, and Egypt flanks the south.

When the Israelis set up their state, Syrian, Iraqi and Jordanian troops entered Palestine. Saudi Arabia sent forces to strengthen Egyptian garrisons on the border.

There followed throughout 1948 battles for Gaza and the Negev desert. Tel Aviv was bombed daily and Jerusalem became a besieged city. Egyptian troops moved to Bethlehem, within five miles of Jerusalem.

UN Ignored

UN cease-fire appeals were either ignored or violated throughout the rest of the year.

Early in January, 1949, Israeli troops speared 30 miles into Egypt the continuing war.

But by that time, Ralph Bunche, U.S. mediator, had begun armistice negotiations. They were completed in early 1949.

Since then the UN has been dealing with border clashes, commando raids, retaliatory drives.

The Security Council and the UN General Assembly have also heard Arab spokesmen vow that Israel will not be permitted to continue as a state, and that no peace treaty will ever be concluded with her.

Algerian Rebels In Paris Court —Face Death

PARIS (AP)—Five Algerian rebel leaders who fell into French hands last week were charged Monday with "attempting to demoralize the army and the nation"—a crime punishable by death.

The five, including the rebel chief, Ahmed ben Bella, appeared before the Paris Military Tribunal. No trial date was set.

Kremlin Question Mark

REGARDLESS OF THE OUTcome of the Hungarian rebellion there can be no doubt that Soviet Russia has suffered its greatest defeat. There have been setbacks to Moscow's ambition in Iran, Greece, Yugoslavia and, in recent days, Poland. The latter relatively bloodless revolt, whereby Poland has secured sweeping reforms and comparative independence from Russia, is not yet completed and its ultimate effects are still not clear. Russia has made concessions to Poland, but there is much in the present Soviet acquiescence that still needs explanation.

In Hungary, on the other hand, one salient fact emerges: a nation under Soviet domination has risen, fought off both Government and Russian troops, and shown that almost unanimous opposition can win freedom by force.

It will not be argued that Russia could not sweep through the country with its Red Army and subjugate it again, but that act alone would be an admission of defeat for the communist system. It would advertise to the world—including the remaining satellites—that force is the basis of the "people's democracy" exported by communist Russia.

Already Russia has suffered a profound psychological upset. The use of force—even if this was at the request of the frightened Premier Nagy—was a serious mistake. It may well prove to have been one of the classic massacres of history. By its ruthless ferocity, the Soviet shooting of unarmed demonstrators must have swept into the revolution many who would have been content to wait on the sidelines.

In addition, the effect in other countries has been profound. Yugoslavia will have noted it; the remaining satellite lands will have seen what underlies "friendship" with Russia; President Nasser of Egypt, heavily in debt to Russia for arms, will have looked twice at this emanation from the workers' paradise.

But the repercussions have gone still farther abroad. The capitals of the world have seen a purportedly solid satellite disintegrate almost overnight. The lesson regarding the communist system is plain.

Indeed, two satellites have now shown that if a Russian "colony" is tough enough it can break out of the entangling net of Soviet domination. Titoism, they are demonstrating, works! This cannot fail to encourage other satellites. East Germany in particular, not so long ago the scene of widespread and desperate outbreaks, must be looking at Poland and Hungary with intense interest.

But much closer home to Moscow there will be other, perhaps even more important, reverberations. A great conundrum hangs over the Politburo—where do we go from here? The so-called soft policy appears to have been a complete failure so far as relations with the satellites are concerned. The old-line Stalinists must be pointing this out in no uncertain terms to the new-look faction. Mr. Khrushchev, prime exponent of the new policy, must be in a particularly uncomfortable spot.

Yet there has been no word from the Kremlin as to what is transpiring behind its walls. The world still awaits an answer to the potent question: which faction is winning?

On that answer may hang much of the fate of Eastern Europe within the next few weeks—a consideration never far from the greater question of world peace.

A Plea for Nourishment

TOMORROW EVENING MR. N. R. Crump, president of the C.P.R., will re-emphasize to a Victoria audience the urgent need on Canada's part to nourish its universities.

This is a familiar theme. It nevertheless gains strength when the leader of this country's greatest private transportation organization takes time from his busy schedule to repeat it. He does this in the conviction that "the rapid progress which is taking place in Canadian economic development today will be of no use whatsoever if we do not have the skilled personnel to carry it forward."

That message is clear enough. It is one which must impress all Canadians, be they interested in the affairs of higher education or in the prosaic matter of acquiring butter for their bread.

In speeches delivered elsewhere in Canada, Mr. Crump has cited some important figures. Within 10 years, he has pointed out, Canadian universities can expect their enrolments to double the present 70,000 total. Even with this increase Canada will lag behind the United States and Russia. At present the number of young people attending university in this country is 4.9 per 1,000 population. In the U.S. it is 15 per 1,000 and in Russia 19.6 per 1,000.

On the financial side, the C.P.R. president draws an interesting comparison. In 1954 Canada spent for non-residential construction 21 times the amount it spent in 1933 and on new machinery and equipment 20 times the 1933 total. Yet the sum spent on higher education in 1954 was only four times that of 1933.

In other words the investment in brainpower is a mere fraction of that in material development.

Mr. Crump, who appears here under the auspices of the Queen's Alumni Association has an impressive argument to make for higher college enrolments. It is to be hoped the Victoria public will provide a large audience to hear him at first hand.

Behave—or Else

WIDESPREAD PRECAUTIONS have been taken to check vandalism and hoodlumism in Victoria tomorrow night. The authorities are making what arrangements they can to see that Halloween—once a relatively innocent night of fun for the very young—is not again made the excuse for cheap and nasty behaviour by youthful gangs.

Police will be expected to deal firmly with any older teen-agers who step out of line. That is the duty of the police.

The force should be able to look for wholehearted co-operation from the adult population. Parents of teen-agers have an obligation to see that their own children do not break the law.

Where the law is broken, full penalties should be applied.

Perhaps decent young folk can help most by staying away from those downtown centres where gangs gather and attempt to assert themselves in ways that reflect low mentalities.

Sauce for the Goose

FISHERIES MINISTER JAMES Sinclair has spelled out his position on salmon fishing off the West Coast in letters a foot high. His attitude has apparently produced a promising response.

Canada, he says, wants to negotiate a treaty with the United States to protect the species called "pinks." And this country wants that treaty before present methods of catching them eliminate the fish.

"If we can't get it (a treaty)," he adds, "we'll go out to get all we can."

In other words, Canada will lift the prohibitions it has placed on its own fishermen to preserve "pinks" if no similar conservation measures are made effective by the United States.

This is straightforward and strong talk. It is not so much a threat, as a warning. And it should lead the two countries to early arrangements which will save an important food source from depletion to the point of extinction.

The draft of an agreement to meet that end has been prepared. Its ratification should be speeded.

There is ample precedent for such a treaty. Halibut is so protected. So is sockeye.

While negotiations on those species took considerable time, there is no need to delay on pinks. There is every reason to avoid delay, since modern methods of fishing can seriously endanger the fishery if negotiations are prolonged.

A vital food source is at stake. It can be preserved. But if it is not going to be preserved by one party to a possible agreement, Mr. Sinclair says he will not hold back the other party from the short-term gains it can make, though these short-term gains spell disaster.

Haunting the Haunter

LOOSE ENDS — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Last Criminal

IT is gratifying indeed to record another victory for progress, not politics—the hitch-hiker has been banned on the roads of British Columbia. It was high time. A hitch-hiker is a man, a woman or child too poor to own an automobile. No mercy should be shown to such creatures. In a civilized society it is unthinkable that any British Columbian should need a free ride and intolerable that he should ask for it. In a province which modestly claims to be the most progressive, enlightened and wealthy in the nation the state is rightly eliminating the last vestiges of criminal poverty.

Hutchison

If some misguided and unprogressive people refuse to buy automobiles, let them walk. Let them eat cake. The march of progress not politics cannot be halted by some fellow standing beside the road with his thumb out. The face of the perfect society must not be disfigured by this symbol of depravity.

BUT even in the perfect society, where nearly everybody is progressive and non-political, there will still be a few reactionary motorists who will continue to pick up passengers when the police are not around, when Big Brother is not looking.

It is to be hoped, therefore, that the state will complete this excellent reform by making it as criminal to offer as to accept a ride. The weak-minded motorist must be punished if he sinks to human kindliness. We can't have good Samaritans interrupting the traffic. That old evil, the spirit of charity, must be rooted out at all costs.

THE cost, in police supervision, may be considerable since some motorists will secretly bootleg old-fashioned goodwill. I do not like to reflect on the best elements in society, the people who have proved their worth by owning a car, but even among this elite will be found certain back-sliders.

They will stop and pick up a boy with a fishing rod and a knapsack, bound for that familiar haunt of evil, the woods and the trout stream. Some motorists will give a lift to an old man who has committed the unnatural crime of poverty—not because the motorist is himself naturally evil but merely out of an old habit, hard to break.

Decency is habit-forming, insidious, even contagious but give us time, education and the police apparatus of the state and we will cure that disease as we have already cured all the other diseases of the body politic.

I SPEAK here as a reformed sinner. Driving all the way across Canada last year and over to Alberta a few weeks ago, I smuggled some hitch-hiker most of the way, but in extenuation I plead necessity and enlightened self-interest.

In the lowly craft of journalism it is necessary sometimes, though not often, to gather facts, and facts can be gathered easily from the local inhabitants. When he is given a ride the local inhabitant is usually talkative and full of information. He may be criminal but he is not dumb.

I think I learned more from this despised species between Halifax and Vancouver Island than I ever learned from the statesmen of Ottawa, or even of Victoria.

I realize now, of course, that it was a mistake (quite legal then) as it is now a crime in British Columbia.

IF a traveler wishes to study society he should not go to the lower, anti-social and human elements; he should consult the state and the men of government who really know the facts and, without charge (except to the taxpayers) will supply all the information you can possibly want in neat booklets, beautifully illustrated.

The investigator of Canadian folkways doesn't need a hitch-hiker in the back seat. All he needs is a road map, a government brochure and a policeman with a radar set.

Anyway, we can count on the full co-operation of all but a few motorists in this latest campaign to clear the highways of the last traces of humanity.

THE motorist as a rule is law-abiding. He never exceeds the speed limit. He never passes at corners or on hills. He never fails to give hand signals when he is stopping or turning. He never drives under the influence of anything more powerful than his patriotic admiration of the state. He never gets into accidents except when he stops to pick up a hitch-hiker and thereby snarls the whole traffic for a hundred miles and reduces the general speed of traffic by as much as twenty seconds.

The motorist will co-operate in the great reform and the dismal figure of the man who owns no car will soon disappear completely from our roads along with the trees, the scenery and the other vestigial remains of the old barbarism.

If gratifying progress instead of politics, is apparent on every hand, much remains to be done before society is quite perfected. If human beings are being removed from the roadside, men, mere men—human, fallible and incorrigibly addicted to humanity—are still driving cars.

SOME of them are still driving at less than sixty miles an hour, some are pausing idiotically now and then to look at the view. Some are actually enjoying themselves in the open and wasting precious time. The worst of them are still picking up perfect strangers who, for all they know, may be thieves and murderers disguised as boys with fishing tackle.

We cannot consider our highways entirely safe and civilized until they contain only cars driven by robots under remote electronic control and the eyes of Big Brother. The state itself will never be safe or efficient while it is exposed to human beings.

MARKED for READING

SPREADING THE WORD

Throughout history colonies have been among the most powerful agents for the spread of the arts and sciences and ways of life that constitute civilization. For the future, it seems that mankind will have to learn to do without this ancient and well-tried method. I think mankind will have to depend, not upon force or domination, but upon the inherent attractiveness of a civilized way of life. The Romans when they overcame the Greeks were at a much lower level of civilization than those whom they defeated, but they found Greek civilization so attractive that, from a cultural standpoint, it was the Greeks who were the victors. Those among us who value culture and a humane way of life must school ourselves to learn from the Greeks rather than from the Romans.

More About 'Royalty Stuff'

With reference to the letter which appeared in your issue of Oct. 25 from Mrs. A. Marshall on the subject of Colin, Crime and Republicanism, I should like to make the following comments:

(1) Mrs. Marshall speaks of "royalty stuff" and in this connection I should like to remind your readers that our most able prime minister, who hails from French-speaking Canada, stated categorically in the House of Commons in Ottawa that, in his opinion, a constitutional monarchy, as established in Canada, was the best form of government in the world. I doubt that anyone will question Mr. St. Laurent's knowledge and ability to make such a statement nor could anyone accuse him of not being a "true Canadian." In other words if we are to have a constitutional monarchy it stands to reason that we must have a monarch.

(2) Mrs. Marshall speaks of the advisability of Canada leaving the Commonwealth.

I would like to challenge Mrs. Marshall to give your readers one constructive benefit which would accrue to us in Canada if we left the Commonwealth. In my humble opinion we would be losing a great deal. However, I doubt very much that Mrs. Marshall's views are shared by a large section of our citizens as the issue has never been included in the platform of any political party and I feel that if Mrs. Marshall did voice the opinion of a large section of our population the issue would definitely have been included in the platform of one or the other of the political parties.

As far as I can recall all of the leaders of our political parties have expressed satisfaction with Canada's place in the Commonwealth. I do not think that our political leaders can be classed in any category other than "true Canadians."

Off-Season

Many will sympathize with those American tourists who call at our stately legislative buildings and ask if they can watch British Columbia's parliament in session.

Alas, there is no session until February and our visitors are denied the stimulating entertainment of watching angry legislators shaking their fists at each other across the floor of the House.

The sight of the Premier and CCF leader Robert Strachan glaring at each other in frozen anger across the floor of the House—the Premier with frozen forefinger raised—would surely lend drama to the buildings during these dead periods between sessions when there is little to see but the portraits of bearded legislators of the last century.

MR. PICKWICK.

FROM WASHINGTON — By WALTER LIPPMANN

Those H-Bomb Tests

WERE THE HYDROGEN BOMB tests not involved in the campaign, and therefore at once exaggerated and oversimplified, what precisely is the substantial issue between President Eisenhower and Gov. Stevenson? Basically, it is whether the testing of the big hydrogen bombs presents a special problem, requiring a special solution, distinct from and different from the problems posed by all the other weapons, including the atomic bombs and the smaller hydrogen bombs. The Governor's position, when it is precisely defined, which it has not always been, is that the big hydrogen bombs are a special problem which can and should be dealt with without waiting for a general agreement covering the regulation of all armaments.

Lippmann

The President's position is that the big H-bombs are not a special case and that the testing of big H-bombs cannot and should not be limited unless and until there is general agreement, with satisfactory safeguards of inspection and control, on all weapons.

On this basic issue there is little doubt, I submit, that the Governor has the better of the argument. It does not follow, I hasten to add, that the Governor's solution of the problem is satisfactory.

What cannot be denied successfully is that the big hydrogen bombs are a special problem, and a close reading of the President's statement of Tuesday including the accompanying memorandum of the experts goes a long way to justify this conclusion.

Widespread Pollution

The explosion of big hydrogen bombs is a special problem because the fall-out is not confined to the country which is testing the bomb. It can and it does pollute the air of neighboring countries.

When, for example, the Soviets exploded a big bomb last September, there was a fall-out in Norway which was about one-tenth of the international norm for dangerous radiation.

This was all very well. But it did not reassure and it did not please the Norwegians. For the fact was that poison was being dumped on Norway without their having anything to say about whether it should be dumped, about how often it should be dumped, and what was the legitimate amount of poison that could or should be dumped upon them.

The Norwegians were in the position of a man who finds that every now and then his neighbor puts some arsenic in his morning coffee, accompanied by the assurance that it is not enough arsenic to kill him.

There is no denying, it seems to me, that because of the fall-out on other countries the testing of big hydrogen bombs is the legitimate concern of the international community. The testing is a proper and a necessary subject of international regulations. And no nation, especially not the United States, can afford to have a policy which refuses to recognize that the world community has a legitimate interest which must be protected.

In the Tuesday document from the White House, the accompanying memorandum of the experts admits the basic fact—that the big bombs are a special problem.

The President's statement itself attempts to argue away the importance of this basic fact. But in section two of their memorandum the experts, speaking of fall-out, say that the phenomenon of fall-out from atomic weapons has been known since the first tests in July, 1945.

The experts then go on to say that fall-out "acquired a greatly increased importance with the advent of early thermo-nuclear (hydrogen) weapons although the objectionable fall-out of an atomic explosion, especially the component Strontium-90, is the result of atomic fission, which is the specific reaction in exisiting small atomic weapons."

Bigger Fall-Out

The question we may ask about this not very clear sentence is, why did fall-out acquire increased importance with the first hydrogen bomb tests? The answer of common sense is that the much bigger bombs caused a much bigger fall-out.

The President's own statement confirms the conclusion that there is a real difference between the smaller and the bigger bombs.

In spite of the casuistic argument that all bombs have some fall-out—so why single out the big ones—the President says, "It is true that tests of very large weapons would probably be detected when they occur. We believe we have detected practically all such tests to date."

Why have we detected them? Because the fall-out is not confined to the territory of the Soviet Union. This would seem to settle the issue as to whether or not the big hydrogen bombs are a special problem.

The President and the Governor have also had a difference of opinion as to how an agreement to suspend the testing of the big bombs could be enforced. The Governor has said that if the Soviet Union broke the agreement by exploding a big bomb, the American reply would be to resume exploding our own bombs. The President's argument has been that the United States could do nothing and that we would be set back dangerously in the race of armaments.

Wrong View

Neither of them, it seems to me, has visualized correctly the situation which would exist.

Let us suppose that an international treaty had been negotiated in the United Nations which stipulated that bombs of a certain size—big enough to cause fall-out and big enough therefore to be detected—may not be exploded.

Let us suppose, which I believe we ought to insist upon, that the treaty stated that the illegal explosion of such a big bomb is an international crime of which the United Nations shall at once take cognizance.

The violation of the treaty would at once precipitate an international crisis. The United States and its allies would have the right to take the position that the violator of the agreement has committed an act which was preliminary to war, like mobilizing on the frontier of a country, and that counter-measures, collectively if possible, singly if necessary, were justified.

Precipitate War

The reply to a violation would not be, it seems to me, anything so tame as Gov. Stevenson's suggestion that our own testing be resumed. Nor would it be anything so abject as doing nothing except complain that we had lost the race of armaments. What would happen is that the violation of an agreement of this critical character would either precipitate war or sanctions that were the very nearest thing to war.

An international treaty to suspend the testing of bombs big enough to be detected abroad, big enough therefore to pollute the air abroad, would—if it were properly negotiated—stand no greater chance of being violated than many of our other agreements—for example the agreement which enables us to stay in West Berlin.

Like those agreements it would be observed unless the Soviet Union decided to start the Third World War. And if the Soviet Union decided to do that, it will not start the war by testing an experimental bomb. It will start it by using the proven bombs it already has.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

Season Closing In

THE bluebills and butterballs have led winter's waterfowl flotillas back into the bay. They cruise their erratic courses over the surface, ignoring the year-round cormorants standing in ungainly and funereal dignity on the offshore rocks.

Stott

The gulls, noisy bandits, float casually on the grey water, lifting in short flight to worry any duck that dives and surfaces with a fish in its bill.

Across the strait snow creeps lower down the hills. The season is closing in.

Already the gales have claimed their tribute. A small boat, left too long at its mooring, has broken away and died—a thing of shattered sides, smashed bottom and jagged planking—under the pound of storm-driven drift logs.

Rain has darked the bright sands where children played and sun-bathers dreamed the summer away. Only the beachcomber walks the shore now, gathering a wet harvest of bark, piling odd bits of lumber against the bank, squinting seaward to watch the tide for its casual freight.

SMOKES OF AUTUMN

Along the bank acrid smoke rises from dispirited bonfires where householders try to burn their still-green garden trimmings. Leaves on windbreak trees are losing their fight to stay with parent branches.

Borders were flowers made their bright debut in spring and matured to full luxuriance in summer are ragged now. The dead stalks of late growth suspend their sodden blossoms, blackening.

Only an occasional aster still holds up its sturdy head beside Michaelmas daisies beaten down by rain and wind.

The robins, flocking up only two weeks ago in the rowan tree, have gone south, leaving but a few independent fellows to winter here.

In the kitchen garden the potatoes have been dug, the pea vines stripped, the stakes collected and the plants dug in for compost. Only the late greens are thriving, cabbages threatening to burst their tight-drawn vests and sprouts firming under their heavy shade fronds.

It is the time when the husbandman should survey his ground, thankful for the goodness it has given him, and make his plans for next year's planting.

It is a time for him to go indoors early, to light the summer-dried wood in his fireplace, seek his easy chair and take up his book.

IMITATION OF AN IMITATION

At least it should be time for this. But it isn't. This is the season when the record player bounces and moans to the new hits of the younger set, when the broken voice of adolescence rises in a poor imitation of someone who seems a poor imitation in the original.

It is the time when a conscientious helpmeet reminds her spouse that Jack Beastal says heavy soil should be turned for airing in the garden—and we really must get out and tidy things up a bit.

It is a time when kids in high school insist that their memory work be heard, torture lovely lines and mispronounce their words.

It is a time when those little chores show up—the small repairs to the kitchen cabinet doors, the paint-washing job that has been left too long, the work on the window that stuck last spring.

A man, with great good fortune, can escape to his basement, if he has a basement, but serenity does not lie there beside his work bench. A basement isn't a masculine sanctuary any more. A clothes line has been strung in it—where else? You can't dry clothes outside this weather.

So, if a man still has some measure of luck, he can pull on his boots and heavy sweater and wander in the dusk to the shore.

There he can see the bluebills and the butterballs seeking roosts on floating logs, and perhaps a broken piece of boat shining white as it rubs against the rocks in evening's gentle swell.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

The Problem of Mental Diseases

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine Mayo Foundation

I have just read a remarkable book which ought to be studied by every intelligent person in the United States. It is called "Every Other Bed" (World) and is by Mike Gorman, executive director of the National Mental Health Committee. Commonly, when I write a column about the terrible problems of mental disease, a number of people write angrily to say, "What are you talking about that for? You don't know anything about it. You had better keep your mouth shut." These people, of course, don't know that I have spent most of my life studying neuroses and mild psychoses, and that I have written three big books on the subject. But that is just by the way. What delights me is that here is a man who writes authoritatively about "America's number one health problem." No one can tell him that he doesn't know what he is talking about. Anyone who will read his book, filled as it is with thousands of facts, will see that he knows well what the problem is.

Dr. Alvarez

Mr. Gorman was trained in psychiatry; he has attended the meetings of one legislative committee after another; he has read widely, he has worked with leading psychiatrists; and he has gathered a tremendous amount of important information. He quotes Dr. Robert H. Felix, director of the National Institute of Mental Health, who when he was testifying before a Congressional committee, said, "Today there are 9,000,000 people in the United States suffering from some form of mental illness severe enough to warrant treatment. Few get good treatment. If there were 9,000,000 people suffering from typhoid fever—or merely 900,000—we would mass all our public health preventive efforts into a gigantic effort to smash so crippling an epidemic.

"No one denies that mental illness and other personality disturbances are usually significant factors in producing criminal behavior, juvenile delinquency, suicide, alcoholism, drug addiction, and the breaking up of marriages. How can we over-estimate the seriousness of the problem?"

Just one of the U.S. states spent last year $160,000,000 for the care of its mentally ill. This was about 38 per cent of the entire state-purposes budget. And to do right by the insane, the state should have spent much more. In the year 1955 the Veterans' Administration spent $632,000,000 on the care of mentally disturbed veterans! The cost of mental disease to the U.S. must now run about $2,500,000,000 a year. Worse yet, this expense is becoming greater all the time.

There are some clinics for the psychiatric help of patients, but I read that even in New York City, where there are more clinics per person than anywhere else, a mentally disturbed person has to wait from six months to a year before he can get an appointment!

I like Mr. Gorman's feelings of disgust with the way things have been going in the field of psychiatry. As he said, "If there is an angry note of impatience in this book, it is long accumulated and difficult to restrain. Eleven years ago, when as a newspaper man I started waving the reek and stench of our state mental hospitals under the public's nostrils, I thought American know-how would make short work of deficiencies in the system." But, as he says, there was little chance of breaking down "the powerful resistance of the self-appointed guardians of the past."

Since then, Mr. Gorman has written and lectured and taken an active part in mental health reform movements in a number of states. Gradually he has come to see that little can be accomplished by sporadic efforts. The people of America, as a whole, will have to wake up some day and face the terrible situation. As he says, "We have made a small beginning, but the typical state hospital of today is an anachronism. It is still incredibly isolated from the man stream of American medicine. It's sad to say it, but medicine has largely turned its back on this terrible problem."

For a while Mr. Gorman felt like writing from the heart and letting "the hot adjectives fall where they might," but he decided that this might not help. I sympathize deeply with him because often it is all I can do to keep from lashing out at some of the quacks and quackery in psychiatry. Mr. Gorman and I take our hats off to Dr. Will Menniger, "who spends 100 days out of every year travelling about, pleading with industrial tycoons, Rotarians, Kiwanians, Lions, Elks, Eagles and sundry others to support psychiatric research."

Mental Homes Held Obsolete

Treat Mental Cases in Hospitals, Vancouver's Dr. Ranta Says Here

He spoke at Victoria College Monday night at a public lecture sponsored by the Victoria University Extension Association.

"Since the horse-and-buggy days of medicine, the battle has been between medical science and death," he said. "Now disease is the adversary—and the major challenge to medical science is the chronic "long-term disease."

Dr. Ranta cited the field of mental illness where government institutions have "tried to correct the product of an abnormal environment by a second abnormal environment."

"Mental illness will remain remote, isolated and a growing problem unless the mental institutions are brought back to the main road of medicine," he said.

Mental Branch in All General Hospitals

"The medical profession must become aware of this problem. Mental branches should become an integral part of every general hospital that has a mental worker associated with it.

"We must discard the cumbersome, rather obsolete method of admitting patients to an institution. A mental patient should be able to receive mental treatment in the same environment as he would treatment for appendicitis."

The hospitals must expand their services to become a pivot point for the care of all long-term patients, he said.

"They must permit a flow of modern facilities with the least possible friction and red tape instead of providing fragmentary services divided among organizations. These services are sometimes jealously guarded to the point that the service sometimes seems more important than the individual served."

SIX-POINT PROGRAM

He outlined the following changes needed in hospital care of the long-term patient:

(1) Actual facilities for care must be built into the hospitals that will be special and different from facilities for short-term patients.

(2) There must be a change in the present attitude that the problems of long-term patients will be solved by building chronic hospitals.

"I've never entered one without feeling in some parts of it the elements of stagnation of medical care," he said.

(3) Restorative medicine must become a team job that involves the doctor and all his allies—psychotherapist, physiotherapist, medical health officers and welfare.

(4) Hospital services must be extended into the home, based on the understanding that the majority of patients are best treated in familiar surroundings.

(5) The hospital's out-patient services must be extended in order to assist the private doctor with his patients.

(6) Nursing homes should organize into associations which have direct liaison with the general hospitals to ensure continuance of hospital services.

"I don't think nursing homes were meant to be the end of the road for patients," Dr. Ranta said. "Few efforts have been made anywhere to elevate the professional standards of nursing homes."

Change in Financing Approved for Inland

The Public Utilities Commission has authorized a major revision of the first phase of the Inland Natural Gas Company's financing plans.

It was announced Monday the company will issue between 125,000 and 250,000 preference shares at $20 par value.

The shares will include common share purchase warrants.

In the second phase, 250,000 common shares at a par of $1 will be issued "if, as and when common share purchase warrants are exercised."

IN 3 MONTHS

Preference shares are to be disposed of in three months.

Inland has a franchise for distribution of natural gas to interior districts of British Columbia from the pipeline of Westcoast Transmission Company scheduled for completion next year.

Late in September the company was unable to market a $6,500,000 issue of common and preferred shares due to a "decline in the market."

Two Plea Changes By Accused On Impaired Count

McArdle first appeared in court Saturday when he entered a plea of not guilty, switched it to guilty, then went back to his original plea.

Defence counsel asked time to study the case.

Michael A. Purich, 2956 Alpina, convicted of impaired driving at last Monday's court sitting, was allowed by Magistrate H. C. Hall to retain his driver's licence with the restriction that he use it for business purposes only for one year.

PROVINCIAL SCHOOL CHAMPIONS MAY BE OLYMPIC STARS OF FUTURE

Swimmers from Oak Bay Senior and Junior High Schools combined forces at Vancouver Saturday to win the aggregate championship in the annual B.C. high school invitational meet. Posing with trophies won during the season and perhaps dreaming of future Olympic teams are, left to right, Janie Wheaton, Sally Holland, Bob Wheaton, Roland Hawes, Sheri Stott and John Todd. Miss Wheaton and Todd are students at the junior high school. Team is coached by Gary Taylor, Miss N. P. Kelly and Mrs. E. Wood.

Seven members of Canada's Olympic swimming team arrived in Victoria Monday afternoon and immediately swung into the final training program that will end when the squad leaves for the Games at Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 13. Ready for their first plunge into the Crystal Garden pool are, left to right, Gladys Priestley, Montreal; Beth Whittall, Montreal; Virginia Grant, Toronto; Helen Stewart, Vancouver, and Sara Barber, Brantford, Ont. WHAT'S THE SCORE? BY Denny Boyd

They say that on many a clear night, Abe Saperstein has been found gazing pensively at the moon.

It's a sort of a lunar madness that strikes Abe periodically.

He looks up at the moon and he thinks, "Now if we could just get someone to handle the booking, we'd pack 'em in up there."

Twenty-nine years, Abe has been sending his teams out on the road; 29 years of chuckles, thrills, everlasting memories and more goodwill than all the money in the world could produce.

From a humble start, playing in barns and honky-tonk dance halls, the Trotters have become an enterprise, a glittering, million-dollar-a-year business that was Saperstein's target way back in the thread-bare days when Abe used to sit in the old Poodle Dog Cafe, eating a bowl of chowder with friends in the city. It was then that Abe saw his future. He went out and got it.

In every city in North America big enough to own a set of hoops—the Trotters have been there.

An honored performance before the Pope in the Vatican City. The Trotters were there.

In South America, Africa, Australia, Israel, India, Japan, China. Jab your finger on a map of the world. Chances are, the Trotters were there.

If you're like me, you've seen the Trotters every time around. You know their shots. You know their Sweet Georgia Brown warm-up routine. You know all their court antics.

But, if you're like me, you'll be out there watching them again tonight. They're like olives. They always leave a craving for one more helping.

Thoughts That Pass in the Dark

You had an idea of what kind of game it was going to be Saturday, when eight Maraloma players were in on the tackle on the opening kickoff. . . . Royal Roads, in the first half, was stunned and shocked at the ferocity of the Maraloma offence. The Vancouver kids, a good 15 pounds lighter along the line, blocked with savagery and consistency. The failure of cadet quarterback Cal Connors to run with the ball on his option pass plays cost the Roads team valuable yardage. . . . And when you consider the words of Vancouver referee Jack Duggan, who said, "Lomas are good but they won't come withing 40 points of Edmonton," you can see just how far Victoria has to go yet to measure up.

Bud Poile, Edmonton Flyer coach, said it here Friday: "People on the prairies used to run and hide when the Cougars made a swing through. They played dull hockey. One game with them, they had a one-goal lead and were trying to nurse it. Their ragging tactics forced 23 face-offs in one period. But now, Kilburn has changed that. The fans in Edmonton can't wait to see the Cougars again."

Edmonton Eskimo coach Pop Ivy is a solid four-base hit as a coach but he's a foul ball when it comes to public relations.

Ivy's action in leaving Normie Kwong, Johnny Bright, Earl Lindley and Rollie Miles at home before Saturday's game at Winnipeg and then benching Jackie Parker, is inexcusable.

If WIFU officials won't take action against Ivy, the Winnipeg club certainly should storm the doors of the league's ivory tower.

How Ivy expected Winnipeg to d r a w a capacity crowd when he announced, a day ahead of time, that he was bringing a second-string team, is unfathomable.

Junior Habs Want Puck Assignment

Canadiens Will Back World Tourney Entry

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Selke said Monday night that if the people of Canada and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association want Ottawa Junior Canadiens to represent Canada in next winter's world-hockey tournament in Russia, "We will go along with them."

The managing director of the National Hockey League Montreal Canadiens and its farm clubs said he wanted to make it clear that the idea didn't originate with his organization but if had been approached on the matter.

Selke said he understands schedule arrangements in leagues at home could be worked out so the junior team, augmented with a few top-calibre senior players, could make the trip to Moscow.

STILL BE IN CUP PLAY

"The team would be over there eight days next February, and with a few days added for travelling both ways, it could still compete at home," said Selke.

"The junior club itself would be eligible for Memorial Cup play.

"If the team should go, it will go as the representative team of Canada coming from Ottawa, the capital city—not as the junior Canadiens."

Selke said he was approached last Friday by George Panter, former president of the Ontario Hockey Association, who had been trying to raise funds to send over an all-star amateur team, as originally agreed at the CAHA's annual meeting in Montreal last May.

"I told Panter, however, that if there was any idea we were pushing this thing we wouldn't want to do it. So long as it was clear that the request didn't originate with us I said we would go for it if the people of Canada and the CAHA want us to."

Selke said he believes the club could be strengthened by a couple of big, strong defencemen and two forwards adept at killing off penalties. One he had in mind is Frank Maholivich, who plays with Toronto St. Mike's and is property of Toronto Leafs of the NHL.

TROTTERS HERE TONIGHT; VAUDEVILLE SHOW, TOO

Harlem Globetrotters, basketball's most fabled team, make their annual visit to Victoria tonight when they clash with Hawaiian Surfriders in an exhibition game at Central Junior High School.

The colored court comedians, who combine top-grade hoop talent with their comedy, will again be accompanied by a group of vaudeville entertainers who will perform prior to the game and during the half-time intermission.

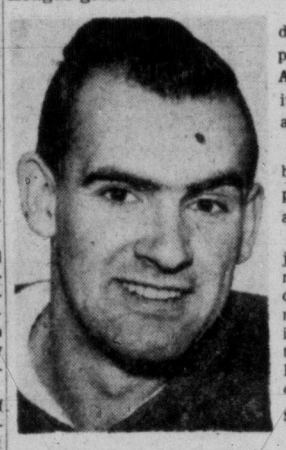
Included in the troupe are accordionist Tony Lavelli, former All-American basketballer at Yale University, and Lilly Yokoi, who is billed as the world's greatest trick bicyclist.

Game time is at 8 tonight.

KILBURN'S ULTIMATUM

10 Lbs. or Else... Bulloch Warned

Either 10 pounds goes or you go, was the ultimatum issued to Victoria Cougar defenceman Nelson Bulloch today as the Cats flew to Vancouver for a Western Hockey League game with the Canucks.



NELSON BULLOCH
. . . weight problem

Coach Colin Kilburn has directed that Bulloch "lose 10 pounds in two weeks or else." And when a coach says "or else" it usually means a quick trip to another team.

Bulloch, built like a brick fullback, is a cuddly 197 pounds at present, and must pare down to a more fighting weight of 187.

Kilburn's reducing gambit is just one of several moves he's making in an effort to put the club into winning ways. Tonight's game with the Canucks is one of three for the Cougars this week and according to Kilburn, "we'd better win two of them".

SHUFFLES LINES

Looking for his third win of the season and first on the road, Kilburn will also shuffle his offensive alignments for tonight's game.

He will drop down to centre the line of Bruce Carmichael and George Ranieri, while Wayne Brown will go up on left wing with Doug Anderson and Doug Macauley. Third line will have Bob Becket centering Larry Leach and Roy Partridge, with Don Chiupka as utility.

Bulloch will partner Bill Davidson on defence, along with Bill Dobbyn and Lionel Heinrich.

Centreman Gordie Haworth is still out with a charley-horse suffered on the club's recent Prairie trip, but may be ready for Friday night, when the Cougars host New Westminster at Memorial Arena.

Cougars, in third place in the Coast division standings, behind Seattle and New Westminster, have five points for the season, one more than Vancouver.

Brian Cullen Out

TORONTO (CP)—Brian Cullen, Toronto Maple Leaf centre, injured in last Saturday's National Hockey League game here against Chicago Black Hawks, will be out of action for a week to 10 days, Leafs said Monday.

Swim Team 'Best Yet' But So Is Competition

Olympic Team in City For Pre-Games Practice

By DOUG PEDEN

Canada's Olympic swimmers are closer to the best in the world than ever before, but they will be up against the greatest array of record smashers in swimming history at the Melbourne Olympiad later this month.

That is the opinion of Tommy Walker, coach of Canada's Olympic swim squad, who was putting his charges through a training session at the Crystal Garden this morning.

"This is the strongest team we've ever had," said Walker, "but swimmers in other countries have also made terrific strides in the past few years."

"I feel sure there will be a new record in every swimming event at the Olympics," he added.

Walker, team manager Dr. Paul Hauch of London, Ont., and seven members of the team arrived in Victoria Monday afternoon and immediately embarked on an intensive training program that will continue until they leave for Australia, Nov. 13.

Obviously pleased with arrangements made for the team in Victoria, Walker is enthused over the plan that for the first time will give Canada's swim squad a chance to work together for two weeks before an Olympiad.

The soft-spoken Torontonian who first coached a Canadian team when he handled the women's swimming squad at the 1932 Olympic Games at Los Angeles, appears dedicated to his task and fondly describes his swimmers as "all workers." And it appears that an adaptability to work will be an asset during the next two weeks.

Walker's daily training schedule calls for two hours of swimming in the morning, a period of calisthenics in the afternoon, followed by another session in the water.

HELEN STEWART
. . . world champion

Potential in Every Event

While not predicting any gold medals for his 10-member squad, the veteran coach says, "we have potentialities in every event entered," and stressed that Canada is not sending a token team to Melbourne.

He expects that his two divers —Irene MacDonald, of Hamilton, and Calgary's Bill Patrick—may be Canada's top threats and believes the women's relay team and "two or three individuals" have good chances to score points.

Miss MacDonald and Patrick will not train in Victoria. Patrick, the tower diving champion at the 1954 British Empire Games, is working out in Mexico City, and Miss MacDonald, now in Los Angeles, will finish her training at Vancouver.

Among the individuals who may finish well up at Melbourne might be numbered little Sara Barber, the 15-year-old sensation from Brantford, Ont., who is the holder of Canadian records in four backstroke events and the mile freestyle.

Giving Walker added hope for a strong showing by the Canadians are the recent performances of Toronto's Virginia Grant and Helen Stewart, of Vancouver.

Miss Stewart topped the world short-pool record while winning the 100-yard freestyle in the British Columbia high school meet at Vancouver, Saturday, churning the distance in 57.6 seconds to trim the old record, set by Judy Alderson, of Chicago, by half a second.

Miss Grant smashed the Canadian long-pool mark and was just over the world record for 100 yards when she turned in a 58.6 effort during the Olympic trials at Toronto.

Relay Team Could Be Strong

Miss Stewart and Miss Grant are expected to compete on the relay team with Beth Whittall and Gladys Priestley, both of Montreal.

Miss Whittall, who will enter the butterfly and 400-metre freestyle events, was a double winner at the 1955 Pan American Games and received the Lou Marsh Trophy as Canada's outstanding athlete in that year.

Miss Priestley, runner-up to Lorraine Crapp, Australia's world record holder in the 400 metres at the Empire Games, will be entered in the freestyle events.

George Park of Hamilton and 16-year-old Bill Slater of Vancouver will carry the country's hopes in the men's swimming events at the Olympiad.

Slater, who Walker says "recently appeared on the horizon of big-time swimming," is the Dominion 400-meter freestyle champion and holder of three Canadian records.

Walker is eager to praise all who had a hand in producing the Canadian team and particularly lauds the coaches who developed the swimmers. "This," he says, "is a national effort."

WITH STONE AND BROOM

Things Normal Again at VCC

With the usual summer of dog shows, auto shows, figure skating and other plebian pursuits over and dismissed, the curling again is back in the Victoria Curling Club for another busy season.

Following the official opening of the club draw Monday night, VCC will ring hollowly with the sound of rock and broom from now until next April.

To date a total of 63 rinks is entered in the four divisions of the club draw. Draws will be held five days a week, excluding Saturday and Sunday. Saturday this year will be exempt from club draws, and will be reserved for novelty and special events.

A total of 14 rinks is in the women's division.

In addition to the regular club curling, there are 13 commercial leagues totalling approximately 206 r i n k s. These leagues, curling the week around, comprise the actual bulk of play at the club.

Leagues include Civil Service, Dockyard, Wednesday C o m m ercial, HMCS New Glasgow RCN Curling Club, BCE Curling Club, Sunday C o m m ercial, HMCS Jonquiere, C a n a d i a n Legion, Royal Roads, Afternoon Ladies, Seniors and Army.

Civil Service and Wednesday Commercial have openings for new rinks, while the Seniors, who curl every Tuesday and Friday afternoon, welcome any youngsters over 60 who want to join in.

Then there is the proposed junior curling division, now in process of being organized from high school curlers. First registration session was held Monday night, with another scheduled for Wednesday evening from 4-6.

Under the guidance of Gar Taylor, instructors Rev. Guy McKenzie, Will Lawson, Bill McLean, Bob McIntosh, Luke Roe, Dan Fisher, Ivan Wood, Bill Ludlow, Bill Brown, Harry Croll and Charlie Bacon, will take the youngsters in hand.

Taylor and his staff are hopeful of arousing enough interest in high school curling to put it on a par with that of prairie schools. An attempt to bring the 1958 Canadian high school curling championship to Victoria as part of the B.C. Centennial celebrations is being discussed.

The MacDonald Brier has already been vigorously spoken for by VCC for 1958.

While it is a little too early yet to start worrying about bonspiels, the first 'spiel poster is up in the club. This is for the mammoth Totem Bonspiel at Vancouver, Dec. 2-7, and so far four VCC rinks have signified intentions of attending.

These will be skipped by Glen Walkey, Dr. Kirby Moysey, Tony Gutoski and Gar Taylor.

Flyers Lead Suburban Loop

NANAIMO — Port Alberni Flyers bumped Courtenay, 5-2, at Nanaimo Civic Arena Sunday to take over first place in the Suburban Hockey League standings.

Nanaimo - Ladysmith C o m bines moved into a second place tie with Lake Cowichan by downing the former leaders, 5-3.

A. Walz, A. Angelstead, B. Yesowick, R. Wilgress and R. Bridge scored for the Flyers while Angelo Defelice counted twice for the losers.

For Combines, Davies fired two goals with Lipsett, Gourda and Haslam counting once. J. Peterson with two and Wannaker counted for Lake Cowichan.

Lopez Replaces Marion At Helm for White Sox

CHICAGO (AP)—Al Lopez, a mild-mannered baseball man whose biggest vocal outburst was against Cleveland fans after they booed third baseman Al Rosen, was named Monday manager of Chicago White Sox.

Lopez, 48, resigned as skipper of the Indians last Sept. 29 after guiding them to five second places and the 1954 American League pennant in his six years at the helm.

He succeeds Marty Marion as White Sox field boss. Marty resigned last Thursday.

In two years Marion coached White Sox to third. During the 1956 campaign vice-president Church Comiskey indicated that he thought Marty was not getting the most possible from the talent available.

Lopez became incensed in the stretch drive this season when Cleveland fans insisted on booing injury-plagued Rosen. As booing continued Lopez was quoted as accusing the Cleveland fans of "bush-league tactics" and not deserving of a championship team.

Lopez was signed by Sox for one year without a bonus attachment based on attendance. His salary, said Comiskey, will be comparable to his stipend at Cleveland. He also will be given full authority for hiring a new coaching staff.

Money to Burn Still Cambridgeshire Choice

LONDON (AP) — Britain's top bookies slashed prices Monday on Money to Burn, a lightly-weighted three-year-old filly, and made her the 17 to 2 favorite for Wednesday's Cambridgeshire Handicap — last of the Irish Sweepstakes races this season.

Money to Burn is listed to carry 102 pounds over the Newmarket turf course of a mile and one furlong.

Retrial, winner of the Cambridgeshire last season, remained at 100 to 8 but Hafiz II, owned by Larry Macphail of Glenangus Farms in Maryland went from 100 to 8 to 100 to 7.

ANNUAL BUNION DERBY

Ian Fraser Seeking Legion 'Grand Slam'

Ian Fraser, captain of Victoria High School's crack cross-country team, can become the first runner ever to win first-place trophies in all three divisions of the annual Canadian Legion Races when a large field of over 50 entrants lines up at Vic High Wednesday afternoon.

Fraser, who has previously won in the junior and intermediate divisions, will not have quite as easy a time of it in senior division, as he attempts to create a cross-country "triple."

Competing against him will be runners that hail from localities as far distance as Qualicum. Esquimalt and Oak Bay high schools have also indicated that they will enter teams.

Also expected to run in the senior division's three-mile route are squads from Naden, Venture and the Queen's Own Rifles.

Bill Williams, last year's junior champion, will be traveling the two and one-half mile intermediate course, while no runner ranks as a definite favorite to win the one and one-half mile junior division.

Although runners will start and finish in front of the stands at Vic High's Gyro cinder track, the larger part of the running will be done on surrounding streets.

Coach Gordon Hartley of Vic High announced Monday that his team will run in Seattle on Saturday, December 1, against the University of Washington.

Big Tarp To Protect Regina Turf

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Empire Stadium's $12,000 tarpaulin was en route today from Vancouver to Regina to ensure a solid underfooting for the clubs engaged in the Western Football Conference semifinal playoff.

The Saskatchewan Roughriders and the Winnipeg Blue Bombers meet at Taylor Field Saturday afternoon in the first phase of the two-game, home-and-home, total-points round. Regina officials sent out an urgent plea this week for a loan of the expensive tarp, because of wintry weather conditions in the Saskatchewan capital.

There were two inches of snow on the Taylor Field turf last weekend, and the Vancouver tarpaulin is intended to prevent any further damage to the field.

What's New? Rams Using TV Coaching

LOS ANGELES (AP)—First it was short-wave radio coaching of quarterbacks equipped with receivers in their helmets. Now comes coaching by television to the sidelines.

"It's the Rams' new 'closed circuit' TV gimmick. With this, an assistant coach, located up in the press box, can diagram plays and make adjustments down onto the field, where they are picked up on a 17-inch monitor.

"The players gather 'round and see the whole picture in a nutshell—or in a mahogany case, to be exact.

"Not only can the press box coach talk to the players on the field as he diagrams changing coverage, but the players watching the picture as it comes over their TV screen can ask questions by way of a two-way radio.

"For instance, if I make a suggestion to Goy Shiver that he's playing too close, or tight, to Dave Middleton of Detroit, as I did Sunday, Roy can watch as I diagram his new position and add any suggestions of his own."

TV or no TV, Detroit won the game, 16-7.

Toppazzini Ends Lengthy Hold-Out

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Black Hawks announced Monday the signing of Zellio Toppazzini, 26-year-old ace right-winger of the American Hockey League, who has been a holdout since the season opened Oct. 11.

Toppazzini, of Copper Cliff, Ont., will be in the line-up against Boston tonight. Black Hawks manager Tom Ivan did not announce the salary. Toppazzini, drafted for $15,000 from Providence, said at the start of his strike that he was not offered enough money.

COLWOOD GOLFERS WIN

THE HAGEN STORY

Stock Market Pays Expenses

One of the most colorful figures in the world of golf was Walter Hagen. Now, with the aid of Margaret Seaton Heck he has written his amazing life story. Because of world-wide popularity and the fact that he played in the city, the Times takes pleasure in presenting the Haig's biography.

CHAPTER 9

My trips to Great Britain to play in the British Open were directly responsible for my Wall Street venture.

Those trips were expensive propositions. Getting the cash together each year in time to make a reservation on the Cunard Line and land in England early enough to shoot a few rounds of golf and steady my sea legs meant some financial scurrying on my part. Every pro who ever made the trip went through the same ordeal.

I traveled first class, and that included a suite at the Savoy at five pounds a day, the Chez Paris, cocktail hour at the Ritz, the Daimler car with chauffeur and footman, and fine silk shirts custom-tailored.

Hagen

It also included planes chartered for hunting trips over the moors or fishing trips to the northern part of Scotland, and parties at the Savoy Hotel in London where the service was so wonderful. Before I returned home each year I'd somehow managed to spend around $10,000.

Early in 1924 I met Jesse Livermore, better known to the public as the "Wolf of Wall Street." And to Jesse, more than to any other man I've known, I owe my freedom from financial worry during all those many trips I made to play for the British Open trophy.

A few weeks after that first meeting, I ran into Jesse again at the fine Westchester-Biltmore Club at Rye, New York, where I was living. We played a few holes of golf. My second marriage, to Edna Strauss, had taken place that spring and Jesse threw a beautiful party in our honor at the club.

Sometime during our many talks he suggested that perhaps he could help finance some of my trips abroad. This statement was certainly a surprise to me and I listened with both ears open.

Invited to Wall Street

He invited me to come to his office on Wall Street and we'd see what could be arranged. Jesse did not attempt to educate me into the complexities of the market. "Walter," he said that first day, "sit down and let me explain a few things to you. I've a couple of rules and suggestions I'd like you to follow.

His basic rules were: Buy when he bought; sell when he sold. And most important of all, never let a day end with one single share of stock unsold. I operated on his credit, which he okayed.

Where he gave orders in the millions I bought a few hundred shares. I used my own judgment about the amounts I bought and sold. He must have had confidence that I wouldn't go haywire on his credit.

After two weeks that first spring I had enough to cover my trip to England and I also had that freedom from financial worry which enabled me to relax on the course. Relaxation is a word practically synonymous with the name Walter Hagen.

Relaxed Golfer the Best

Professional golf is a strenuous game—a demanding grind, both mentally and physically. And only the relaxed golfer can play his best in tournaments . . . firming up on occasion when the going gets rough.

In tournament golf we pros not only pitch for the cup and the title, but also for the ticket home. Sometimes the ticket home means more than the title. Well, after I met Jesse all I had to pitch and putt for was the title. I gave my first British Open Championship cheque, about $375, to my caddie.

I've known a number of good pros who could not play tournament golf. They got the heebie-jeebies just thinking about it. Every golfer knows that tightening of the muscles, the flicking of the nerves that hits when he finds himself in a tough situation.

But only the fellow who can give himself a quick shake mentally and release the physical tension can go on to play championship golf. The champion golfer needs terrific power of concentration. He must keep his mind completely on the shot to be made.

He can travel as I travelled o the finest ships of the Cunard Line, live in the best hotels, enjoy the social and recreational activities of England and Europe, and play the relaxed game of golf I was able to play, only if he is as lucky as I was of having the friendship and the generous financial direction of a man like Jesse Livermore.

Tomorrow—The 1922 British Open. Hagen tells how he won his first of four British championships.

Public Asked For Ideas on Centennial

Mayor Percy Scurrah Monday called on the public to submit suggestions for a Centennial year project for this area.

"We want all the best thoughts that we can get," he said.

The provincial government has offered a grant of 60 cents per capita to all municipalities which will match the gift dollar for dollar and erect a Centennial memorial "of lasting value and significance."

In this area a four-municipality committee has been set up and a joint project is planned by Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

So far committee men have suggested extension of Memorial Arena so it could be used as a public auditorium and have addition of a children's rink, and there has been suggestion the money (about $70,000) could be used to subsidize construction of a planned new wing for Royal Jubilee Hospital.

It is understood, however, the government, which will have final say, wants the money used for some project which would not come about in the normal course of civic development.

Feeling on the matter is that the right idea has not yet been submitted.

Mayor Scurrah said any suggestions received from the public would be turned over to the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee, chaired by Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

B.C.'s 100th birthday occurs in 1958. It is anticipated the first grants will be available early in 1957.

The fair will last to October 19, 1958.

SIDNEY—Failure to retract a statement that Sidney Village Commission conducted some of its affairs in a beer parlor could lead to a libel charge, the commission announced at its meeting Monday night.

J. G. Mitchell, chairman of Sidney Ratepayers' Association, made the charge last week, to the effect that two commissioners meeting in a beer parlor had appointed a man from Saanichton to check parking violations in the village.

"The accusation by J. G. Mitchell is completely denied," it was stated in a commission report. "Notice is given that Mr. Mitchell must either publicly retract or substantiate this slanderous statement or take the risk of being charged with libel and defamation of character."

ELECTRICAL'S THE WORD, BOY

How Our Neighbors Choose a President

To clear up some of this confusion a Times reporter today interviews a mythical U.S. senator. The results of the interview follow:

Q. Excuse me, sir, but my name is Horace Snifkin, and I am a Canadian. You are, sir, a U.S. Senator, I believe?

A. That I am, my friend.

Q. I don't understand how your election works.

A. Why not? It's simple, son, simple. What'cha want to know?

Q. What is this thing, the electrical college?

A. "Electoral," son, electoral. Been going since 1787.

Q. And how is it made up?

A. Well, y' see, son, the founding fathers were a bit worried about letting people mark their ballots direct for the president.

Q. So what?

A. So they decided the people should first elect an electoral college.

Q. And who runs the electoral college?

A. Oh, they're just a bunch of people you never heard of out your way. The political parties pick 'em.

Q. Y'got me confused, Senator. Why vote for 'em if they're nobody?

A. Well, son. T'aint quite that way. They got only one job to do, but it's a big one.

Q. And that is?

A. Son, they all go down to Washington, D.C. There they have a meeting and decide who'll be president.

Q. Supposing they don't want Mr. Eisenhower or Mr. Stevenson. Could they appoint someone else?

A. Could be, son, could be. But it don't work that way. They're pledged in advance for the ticket of their party. So everybody knows how they're going to vote before they meet.

Q. Seems a waste of time to me, Senator. Isn't it?

A. Not so, son. Supposing the elected man died right after the election? Y'gotta have somebody as president and y' wouldn't pick the loser. Y'd pick somebody from the winning party, wouldn't you? In law they don't have to pick the man who heads the party with the most votes. But by custom they always do.

Q. And how many are there in the electrical college?

A. Electoral, boy. There's 531. There's one "college" man for each of the 96 senators and for each of the 435 in the House of Representatives.

Q. And does this college elect the senators and the congressmen, too?

Got to Get Elected By Ourselves

A. No, son, not them. We've got to get elected by ourselves. Our names go on the ballots. The electoral college only elects the president and vice-president.

Q. You got me baffled, Senator. In our country the party that elects the most members names the prime minister. Doesn't it work that way with you?

A. Why no, boy. The presidential election is quite separate. Why, it can happen that the Grand Old Party gets the presidency and those Demos control both the House and the Senate.

Q. Now about the 96 senators and 435 congressmen. Are they all running next Tuesday?

A. No, son, 61 of the Senators are "hold-overs" so only 35 will be sweatin' it out. Three of the House members were elected in Maine last September 10. The other 432 are on the stump now.

Q. I'm a little confused, I'm afraid. What is a "hold-over"?

A. A feller whose term isn't up. Y'see, Senators are elected for six-year terms and some are hold-overs from the '52 and '54 elections. The Representatives are elected every two years.

Q. But to get back to the president. I thought you people voted for him. Suppose I was an American and wanted to vote for Ike. Can't I?

A. Well, yes and no, son. You won't find his name on the ballot. But if you vote the straight Republican ticket—peace and prosperity, son, and all you Canadians ought to have a vote, yessir—your vote is taken to be a vote for Ike, and is added in with the others to make a presidential total.

Q. Er, ah . . . yes. And so the electoral college thing really decides it all?

A. Yeah, son, the man getting 266 electoral college votes or more is the new president. That's a straight majority.

Q. Has each state the same number?

A. No, son, no. Washington, for instance, has 9, Oregon 6 and California 32. They all add up to 531.

Q. I see. But I have heard that it's possible for a candidate with the largest popular vote to lose the election.

A. True, son, true.

Q. This makes sense?

A. Of course. The party getting the majority of electoral college votes in each state gets the support of the entire group of "electors" in each state. But it's the electoral college majority that counts, not the popular vote.

Q. Does this happen very often?

A. If Ike wins but the Senate and House remain Democratic, it will be the second time. In 1848 Zachary Taylor, a Whig, was elected president and the Democrats took the Senate and House.

Q. Is it possible to devide the control of the Senate and the House?

A. It's happened twice, son. In 1876, the Republicans put Rutherford B. Hayes in the White House (he was awarded the election by a special commission) and kept control of the Senate, but the Demos won in the House.

Couldn't Wangle Control of Senate

Q. And . . .?

A. In 1884, the Demos elected Grover Cleveland to his first term, retained control of the House, but could not wangle Senate control from the Republicans.

Q. I see. But another thing puzzles me. How long are these gentlemen elected for?

A. Senators for six years—Representatives every two years.

Q. Can they learn their jobs in that time?

A. Yer darn tootin'.

Q. How much does it cost a Senator to get elected—campaign expenses, and all that?

A. Read a piece the other day that estimated around $200,000.

Q. And the whole election?

A. Hard to say, son. Same article figured around $30 millions. That ain't hay, son.

Q. No indeed. Now, sir, will you refresh my memory? What was the outcome last time?

A. Nothing to it, son. Ike got 33,937,252 votes, a new record. Stevenson got 27,314,992.

Q. What about the electoral college votes?

A. "Electoral," son, electoral. Ike carried 39 of the 48 states and got 442 electoral votes. A rout, son, a rout.

Q. But Stevenson did very well in the popular vote, did he not?

A. Depends how you look at it, son. He was only 161,681 short of FDR's record in 1936.

Q. And how many college votes did he get?

A. He carried nine states for 89 electoral votes.

Q. Aha. But I've been seeing all kinds of things on Seattle television that don't seem to have much to do with the presidency. Aren't there some other people running?

A. Yes, son, there's 29 state Governors up for election. That's a separate ballot and there's lots of others for state offices.

Q. I seem to recall that Huey Long's brother has already been elected?

A. Right. That vote was last Jan. 17. And Edmund Muskie went in in Maine on Sept. 10.

Q. Whew.

A. Y'understand, son? Quite simple, the whole thing.

Q. Yes, isn't it. And now, one last question. Who, Senator, is going to win?

A. That's a tough one, son. But of one thing you may be sure. . . .

Q. Yes. . . .?

A. From the rock-bound coasts of Maine, to the sunny slopes of California, the peep-ul of this great nation will vote for peace, prosperity, progress and happiness which will be ensured if I, Senator. . . .

UNIFORMS CAN BE FUN — when you don't have to wear 'em, and all the discipline involved is strictly self-applied. So say these pre-teenagers of Monterey School, who have decided that ancient cadet gear uncovered during demolishing of old Oak Bay High School are just the thing for study and play. Inspection by no-doubt major-general reveals several faults which may lead to KP duty. But the troops can always turn in their uniforms.

BETWEEN TIMES

By

MONTE ROBERTS

On this, the eve of Cat Week, I am in receipt of an invitation from the American Feline Society, Inc., 41 Union Square West, New York 3, N.Y., U.S.A.

This invitation invites me to become a life member of the Feline Society, at the attractive price of only $250.

This is certainly a bargain basement price if I ever saw one, especially in view of the accepted feline ratio of nine lives to one.

Divide nine into $250, and what do you get? (or should you multiply? Cats do.)

Any way you work it out, it is not the price which prompts me to refuse the honor of a life membership in the American Feline Society.

I have been leary of joining any United States organization since the advent of congressional committees investigating past associations.

I would hate to have a committee of congress decide association with cats was an indication of subversive leanings.

And the way committees of congress have been acting recently, even a perfectly innocent association with wide-eyed kittens might be misinterpreted.

No, I will keep away from joining U.S. organizations. If I join anything feline, it will be the good old Canadian Cats' Protection League.

I have often thought it would give one a cozy, secure feeling to be under the protection of cats.

It is just a matter of common sense to keep cats on your side. At last count, there were about 21,000,000 cats on this continent, give or take a litter or two.

I would rather have 21,000,000 cats for me than against me.

That is one reason I have long and diligently campaigned for equal rights for cats.

When Cat Week opens, which is on Sunday, Nov. 4, I hope many more disciples will join in this equal rights campaign.

Why should dogs alone be privileged to have their names and addresses duly registered on the tax rolls of the cities and municipalities?

Why should cats be denied the protection of registration?

Cat lovers of the world, arise.

Demand equal rights for cats.

First the right to be licenced, then the right to vote.

When 21,000,000 cats have the franchise—as well as the licence—the word will be "as cats go, so goes the nation."

TOTAL OF $450 was raised at a fall fair in Sir James Douglas School auditorium Friday. The annual event was sponsored by the PTA under new president Mrs. W. B. Laing (above), 1336 Carnsew. Honorary president is A. J. Stevenson, principal; vice-president, T. H. Smith; recording secretary, Mrs. W. Crothall; corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. A. Zala, and publicity chairman, Mrs. H. B. Kelly. Convener of the fair was T. G. Sewell.

House Building Shows Decrease

Central Mortgage & Housing Corporation reported today a total of 1,097 "house starts" since the beginning of the year, as compared with 1,425 in 1955.

The figures include all homes under construction or completed in Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt during the past 10 months.

Trustees Back Mayor In Pinball Ban Drive

'Small Time Racket Must End,' Says Board

Greater Victoria School Board today threw its weight behind a drive by Mayor Percy Scurrah to outlaw pinball machines in Victoria.

Board chairman W. H. Golby said the matter was discussed by the board in camera. At its next meeting the board will pass a resolution of support to the mayor.

Following reports of payoffs and wide open gambling Mayor Scurrah recently asked council for a ban but council delayed action pending further investigation. The mayor is expected to make a report on investigations he since has carried out.

Mr. Golby called for action without further delay:

"Although it may be difficult to obtain gambling convictions in many cases, there have been enough convictions to prove these machines are morally wrong and detrimental to the youth of the community.

"What other reason does the council need to ban them?

"There are plenty of legitimate vending machines to fill the gap in income which removal of these machines would incur for some merchants."

He said he would ask why the machines are banned in Esquimalt and Oak Bay and not in the city and Saanich. What one municpal council can do another can repeat, he felt.

"Why spend millions trying to teach youngsters the difference between right and wrong and then sell out for a few paltry licences?"

The city licenses about 60 machines and gains an annual income of about $3,600 from this source.

"Either the council hasn't the courage of its convictions or is in a complete state of apathy to this teen-age menace. Pinball machines are not played for nickels but for big payoffs," the school board chairman said.

"When a borderline delinquent needs money to gamble he steals or worse. I cannot endorse this attitude of leniency to a provenly dishonest small time racket.

"There are enough problems in the world for our youth to solve without having an insidious form of gambling openly tolerated."

$3,000 QUOTA FOR CHILDREN

Objective of $3,000 has been set for the Vancouver Island "Save the Children Fund" Halloween.

More than 2,000 children attending Sunday schools on the Island, will collect money for the fund in cans provided by Vancouver Island representative Mrs. W. W. McGill, Tattersall Drive.

On Halloween of last year, $2,500 was collected. The money was sent to underprivileged children in Europe and Asia.

Ash Hopeful After Bond Guarantee Talk

A "measure of encouragement" for the idea of provincial aid to municipalities in essential works projects was given in a meeting Monday between municipal affairs minister Wesley Black and Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash.

Mr. Ash said the minister intimated cabinet consideration would be given to the suggestion the province guarantee debenture bond issues to cover large projects such as sewerage.

Rapidly expanding municipalities like Saanich find themselves in a difficult position when attempting to borrow the large amounts of money required for big works projects.

Manslaughter Charge Against Woman Driver

A charge of manslaughter was read in city police court today to Mrs. Audrey Winnifred Lowe, 426 Niagara, in connection with the traffic death Oct. 18 of Mrs. Mary Lush.

Mrs. Lowe, represented by counsel Lloyd McKenzie, was remanded to Nov. 6 to fix a date for preliminary hearing.

Mrs. Lowe was identified by police as the driver of a car that collided with another auto in which Mrs. Lush was a passenger at Simcoe and Government, Oct. 15. The accident occurred at about 11 p.m.

Mrs. Lush, 60, of 211 Cook, died in St. Joseph's Hospital three days later.

LUNG PUNCTURED

Medical evidence given at an inquest Oct. 22 disclosed her death resulted from broken ribs which punctured her left lung.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

Mrs. Lush was a passenger in a car driven by her sister, Miss Lillian Barton, 1044 McClure.

Mrs. Lillian Dixon, 145 Michigan, a passenger in the Lowe car, testified at the inquest that Mrs. Lush said immediately after the accident:

"I'm all right. It's just a cut on my nose."

City Scouter, Major Hunter, Dies at 76

Major Hugh B. Hunter, DSO, an active leader in the Victoria Boy Scout movement for 20 years, died today in Royal Jubilee Hospital. He was 76.

Major Hunter retired as secretary of the local association in 1955 after six years' service. He was previously a district commissioner and received a number of honors for his scouting activities.

He was recently presented with the Scouts "gold thanks badge" by Scout leaders of the district. He held the long service medal of merit and bar, and the Gilwell wood bead badge.

Maj. Hunter

In 1937 Maj. Hunter was honored by friends and associates on his completion of 25 years' service with Huron and Erie Mortgage Corporation and The Canada Trust Company. He was manager of the Victoria branch and retired from the firm in 1948.

Born in Scotland, he enlisted with the Imperial forces in 1915 and was in active service for four years, being awarded the Distinguished Service Order.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Friday in Christ Church Cathedral. Cremation will follow.

Downtown Lounge Asked for Aged

A downtown lounge and reception centre for elderly people, to be combined with offices of the newly formed Community Chest agency for senior citizens, was proposed today as an ideal centennial year project for Greater Victoria.

Director of the Red Feather agency, Glen Hamilton, said he will forward the idea to the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee.

"It would be an appropriate memorial for the centennial year in that it would honor and give comfort to many of the pioneers who built this community and other parts of B.C. during the bulk of the last 100 years," Mr. Hamilton said.

The old folks agency would have its office there and carry out its work of locating jobs, arranging recreation, and providing aid and comforts for shut-in pensioners.

Greater Victoria will receive a grant of about $70,000 next year for a centennial memorial project if Victoria, Esquimalt, Saanich and Esquimalt match the gift.

The $140,000 project fund would be sufficient for extensive renovation, or a new building, the social worker thought.

Mr. Hamilton said one of the greatest needs to assure success of the agency is a body of volunteer helpers to assist in finding employment, accommodations, transportation and housekeeping services. Volunteers, or persons needing assistance should phone Mr. Hamilton at 2-5121.

ASK The TIMES

Q. How old is concrete in the history of construction? D.R.D.

A. The Cyclopedia of Canada briefly and lucidly sets it forth as follows: "The principal ingrédient of concrete is more specifically known as Portland cement, the great advantage of which over hydraulic or natural cement is uniformity and strength. It was invented by Joseph Aspdin of Leeds, England, and began to figure prominently on the English and Continental markets about 1850, but was not manufactured in America until 1870. In Canada the department of mines report for 1856, the first official record, states that a Major Bradley, R.E., made hydraulic cement from black limestone of Quebec. Earlier, however, between 1830 and 1840, it is known that Ruggles Wright made lime and hydraulic cement at Hull, Que. The works at Hull and at Thorold, Ont., produced a good quality of natural cement till 1887, when imported Portland cement began to flood the market."

V.I. Gives $1,580 To Stratford Fund

Vancouver Island contributions to the Stratford Permanent Theatre Fund stand at $1,580, it was announced today.

The drive, announced earlier this year, is to erect at Stratford a permanent home for the Stratford Shakespearian Festival, to become the "Old Vic" of Canada.

A nation-wide appeal was launched under Col. Max Meighen of Toronto for $1.5 million, two-thirds of which has already been raised.

The theatre is now under construction in Stratford.

Vancouver Island chairman, Stuart Keate, said fund officials were "greatly encouraged" by contributions from this area, which had come from large industries as well as private citizens.

"It was generally felt that, if we could raise $2,500 of the $1.5 million total, Vancouver Island would have made a fine contribution to this national project," Mr. Keate said.

Plans are to hold contributions open until November 15, with the hope that an additional $900 may be raised in that time. Cheques should be sent to Mr. Keate at the Times, and will be receipted from Stratford for income tax purposes.

'We Can Cook, Too!' Gives Inside Story on Recipes

By PENNY SAVER

Now here is a real book!

Under the glaring orange and black cover lettered in brilliant blue are recipes compiled by the Montreal branch of the Canadian Women's Press Club. The book is called "We Can Cook, Too!"

Recipes hot off the press have been gathered together by women of the Montreal Press Club, and illustrations to tickle your fancy as well as your palate have been contributed by various illustrators. You'll recognize the characters as you come across them.

Newspaper people have a language all their own, and you can discover some of the favorite cliches, expressions and gibberish as well as favorite recipes in this wonderful book.

A touch of poetry here, some prose there, and some down-to-earth cooking advice is liberally mixed in the book's ingredients. Everything from wild west spaghetti and chicken and dumplings to the boeuf bourguinonne and cold Singhalese soup give this novel recipe book a distinct flavor with just a hint of printer's ink.

The names of the various preparations are sometimes slightly fantastic . . . just enough to make you want to try them. Irish coffee, heavenly hash, kugelhupf (Latvian pound cake) Alsatian sauerkraut, Balkan braised lamb and pilaff a l'Americaine are just a few of the tempting names for tempting dishes.

You can obtain these books easily. Call me and I'll tell you how. They'd make good gifts and with Christmas coming along you'll want one yourself, even if only to get the recipe for Yorkshire rib binders, a holiday special.

The books are $2 each and are bound with a metal stationary coil. There are 128 pages in all and each one is a revelation. I think you'll enjoy the book. I certainly have.

While on the subject of food, preparation and serving, I'll tell you about the gourmet hound I found. He's a dachshund, divided up into six sections. You can make him long or short, depending on how many of the sections, which are serving dishes, you use. Pickles, dips, and all kinds of tidbits (all of which you'll find in the "We Can Cook Too!" recipe book) can be served from this handy hound. Of glazed pottery, it would make an appreciated wedding present. It's $14.50.

My number is 2-3131. Phone me and I'll tell you where to find the items mentioned here.

The tea was convened by Mrs. Myra Balagno. Tables were decorated with Halloween favors and candy for each guest. Door prizes were won by Mrs. Baverstock, Mrs. E. M. Patrick, Mrs. I. G. Barry and J. H. Miller and J. Hinder.

Judge McPhee At Canadian Club

A native of Prince Edward Island, educated at Prince of Wales College, Charlottetown, Judge McPhee was called to the bar in both Prince Edward Island and Saskatchewan.

For many years Judge McPhee practiced law in Yorkton and was a member of the Federal House of Commons for the district from 1925 to 1940. He is a past president of the Canadian Club of Moose Jaw, and a speaker who has won distinction for his inspirational lecturing and particularly fluent expression.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

About a wedding anniversary gift:

When a girl and boy are about to become engaged, would it be proper for them to go together to get a wedding anniversary gift for the boy's parents or would it be better to do it separately?

Louise Davis answers:

I suggest being on the safe side and doing it separately. At this point the engagement isn't "signed and sealed." The boy's parents might consider it presumptuous and the girl doesn't want to start off the relationship on the wrong foot. Many parents dread the day when they must realize their boy is thinking about flying from their nest to set up one of his own.

Louise Davis

Even if she is engaged, it would be better for the girl to send a card of best wishes and congratulations and pass up any gift unless it be flowers. Engagements are sometimes broken and how would parents feel every time they look at a beautiful silver tray that their son and his former girl sent them for the 25th wedding anniversary?

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Can Do These Exercises Even in Cramped Quarters

It is true that many of the valuable figure molding exercises require quite a large space. When I taught classes there was only room for 18 pupils on a large floor, when they were doing certain exercises. I am sure that this discourages many women from making these motions for beauty at home.

In a small apartment some are impossible. In a large room these usually involve furniture moving. Even then you may skin your shin-bone on a chair or find your head under the divan.

In the case of waist reduction many of the slimming exercises are bending exercises which take no room at all. Abdominal exercises require practically no space. Lots of the most effective hip and thigh reducing exercises do involve a lot of territory. However there are other fine ones which do not.

Today I want to give you a couple of exercises which you can do even if you live in a tiny apartment. The following one is good for the hips and abdomen: Lie on the floor on your left side. Place your right hand on the floor in front of you for balance. As you swing the right leg forward swing the left leg backward. As the left leg swings forward the right moves backward. I call this one The Scissors. One leg swings forward as the other swings back. Once you start keep this up but be sure to reach as far in each direction as possible and to keep your knees stiff. The swing comes from the hips.

This one will reduce the back hipline. Sit on the floor with your legs extending out in front of you on the floor. Lean back, lifting your legs from the floor until your body weight falls directly over the largest part of your hips. Roll from side to side, catching yourself with your hands. Keep the knees straight throughout.

Here is another small-space exercise: Lie on the floor on your back with your arms on the floor, at right angles to your body. Palms cling to the floor as you roll from side to side. Keep the knees stiff and the entire body touching the floor.

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 30, "Exercises for Small Space," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Victoria Bakers Awarded Pay Boost, 35-Hour Week

One of the shortest work weeks won through negotiation goes to Victoria bakery workers in October, 1958, with the start of a 35-hour week.

Agreement for a two-year contract has been signed by local 267 Bakery and Confectionery Workers' Union and three major firms — Canadian Bakeries Ltd., McGavin Bakeries Ltd. and Weston Bakeries Ltd.

Total of 63 employees have also won $2.50 a week increase across the board effective Nov. 1, plus another $2.50 Nov. 1, 1957, bringing top male wage to $84.23 next year.

Announcement of the new contract adds significance to a prediction made here 10 days ago that bread prices may be boosted.

Two hours will be cut from the present 40-hour week Nov. 1 another hour May 1, 1957, a further hour Nov. 1, 1957, and the final hour to 35 a week Oct. 1, 1958.

Some organized office employees—none in Victoria—work the 35-hour week. Unorganized office workers at Victoria Machinery Depot were granted the short week by management.

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Susan Canning, aged 12, of Albany, New York, for her question:

Was Robin Hood a Real Person?

In England, the people of Yorkshire will asure you that their bold Robin was real. They will take you to Kirklees Priory and show you the stone about his grave. The inscription claims that the beloved hero of the greenwood was the best of all archers. It says that Robin Hood was really the Earl of Huntingdon who died in 1247.

Scholars will tell you that this stone is no older than 200 years. This does not worry the Englishmen one bit. The present stone, they say, is an exact copy of a former stone that crumbled away from old age. This could be true. For the spellings and lettering of the present stone have not been in use for many hundreds of years.

The wonderful tales of Robin Hood and his merry men have been told for some 600 years. Such a vivid character was most likely based on a real person. All our early reports of Robin are in old ballads and verses often set to music. A few stuffy people say that Robin was never real because the historians of his day did not mention him. Chances are, the historians also forget to mention your great-grandfather — and he was certainly a real person.

Our first record of Robin goes back to 1377. He is mentioned in a ballad along with Randle, Earl of Chester. And this Randle, we know from other records, was a real person. If the historians forgot our Robin, the poets, songsters, and ballad writers certainly made up for the loss. To most people, Robin Hood represents an ideal, both in his character and his way of life. Andy for one is sure this ideal is based on the life of a real person, though he cannot prove it.

Late in the Middle Ages, people shared that ideal in stories and ballads. We share and enjoy the same adventures and ideals brought up to date on TV. The idea handed down through 600 years has often had to keep pace with the times. New ballads were added long after Robin and his merry men had gone from Sherwood Forest.

Rollicking morris dances became popular in the sixteenth century. Surely Robin would have loved them. So new ballads were written to give him a part in the May Day morris dance festivals. He needed a partner. So laughing Maid Marian was added to the legend at this time.

Originally his name may have been Robin Whode, from the Old English word for wood. As a yeoman hunter, he reached the hearts of the ordinary people. He expressed their desires to rebel against the new forestry laws, their yearning for the free life under the greenwood tree. He was one of them. Not until 1615 do the ballads say that he was an outlawed nobleman. Years later, someone worked out a pedigree for him as the Earl of Huntingdon.

These and other facts may be out of step with his times. It does not mean that he never lived, but only that his charm never died. His original character has not changed at all. He is still the brave, merry outlaw of old. He robs from the greedy to give to the needy. He steals the king's deer, but the king who knows our Robin for a true loyal subject does not mind. He is still champion of women and children.

SHOCK FOR SHOPPERS

Store Survey Shows Canned Goods Soar

By DINAH KERR

Victoria shoppers have noted a definite increase in the price of canned goods within the past two weeks.

A random survey of downtown shoppers today showed the price of almost all canned goods, particularly fruit juices, has increased as much as six cents per can.

"They've done a lot of hollering about the surplus of apples, but I've noticed that the price of apple juice has almost doubled," said one shopper.

Large tins of tomato and apple juices have jumped 6 cents, syrup juices have jumped six cents, syrup has increased from 28 to 33 cents a tin, and packages of candied fruits, nuts and raisins have jumped about three cents in the past two weeks, according to shoppers.

"A lot of canned goods have the price crossed out and a couple of cents added," one houseswife said.

"If it goes on much longer, I won't be able to afford them."

BAD CHEQUES CONVICTION

VANCOUVER—Norman Carmichael, 42, former park commissioner, pleaded guilty Monday to four charges of obtaining money by false pretences.

He was remanded to November 1 for sentence on charges of obtaining $95 last August with bogus cheques.

ELVIS 'STRONG ARGUMENT FOR COMPULSORY SERVICE'

Jack Gould of the New York Times wrote:

"The non-musical participants in the television program included Senor Wences, a gifted ventriloquist, and Elvis Presley, a powerful argument in favor of compulsory military service."

'Third-Rate Talent' In Imported Show

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON, Times Music Critic

With a rather self-conscious attempt at breezy informality, the Four Star Concert at Oak Bay Junior High School, Monday night, was introduced by emcee Wesley Swails as a "musicians' house party."

In general the touring group of four might fit into the non-critical atmosphere of a house party, but on a professional concert stage, informality does nothing to cover their deficiencies.

Most praise-worthy attempt was the enactment of the last few moments of Act I of Puccini's opera, "La Boheme." Swails' explanation of the scene must have clarified the action for members of the large audience who had not previously seen the opera.

SIMPLE STYLE

He and soprano Lorraine Moreau then presented the scene in simple, yet expressive style. Of the vocal side, less complimentary things could be said.

Swails' tenor voice exists either at an extreme forte or a bodiless murmur with no gradations of tone between. Miss Moreau, who replaced ailing Elizabeth Devlin, has a voice of good quality and considerable power, but her breath control is far from perfect and consequently she has a tendency to wander from the middle of the note.

Pianist Severin Turel served up a macedon of over sugary Chopin, a bedizened "Blue Danube" and a hectic Liszt Second Rhapsody among other things. All of which merely proved that he has a pair of powerful and agile hands but left his artistry in considerable doubt.

Of Francis Flanagan, violinist, there is little than can be said with charity. If, as announced, he was a protege of Kreisler, it must have been a long time ago. This reviewer knows of violinists in Victoria a third of the age of Flanagan, who are far superior in such basic matters as tone and bow technique.

It makes one wonder why sponsoring organizations in this city persist in bringing in third-rate United States talent, when there are so many genuinely fine artists at home in Canada, waiting to be heard.

Red Cross Aids Hungary Drug Drive

The Canadian Red Cross is lending its support to a drive to collect money for drugs needed in the current strife in Hungary.

The relief fund is being organized by the Canadian Hungarian Federation in Toronto and Dr. W. S. Stanbury, national commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross, said Monday branches in all cities will accept donations for forwarding.

In a telegram from Toronto to all Red Cross branches, Dr. Stanbury said the drugs bought by fund donations will be flown by RCAF from Malton Airport to Austria for transport to Hungary.

Two Ex-Ratings Awaiting Sentence After $14,522 Taken From RCN Ship

After 19 months of investigation, the "Cayuga case" has ended.

Two men appeared in Esquimalt police court Monday and admitted their part in the theft of $14,522 from HMCS Cayuga on April 23, 1955. They were remanded one week for sentence.

Last month Francis J. Cassidy, 24, was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment for the theft.

An RCMP official said today no further arrests are anticipated and the investigation is now closed.

Robert Thomas Semple, 21-year-old former Cayuga crew member who was arrested in Hamilton, Ont., Thursday, pleaded guilty Monday to the actual theft of the money.

He appeared in court with William James Buchanan, 24, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., who pleaded guilty Friday to being an accessory after the fact.

Pair Will Be Sentenced Monday

Both men will be sentenced by Magistrate H. C. Hall next Monday.

Semple was arrested at his home in Port Arthur, Ont., as the result of investigations which followed Cassidy's arrest.

Cpl. Douglas Rogers of the RCMP told the court that Semple had assisted Cassidy in taking the money from an open safe in the supply officer's cabin.

"Cassidy told him he (Cassidy) would take the money and Semple would cover up for him," Cpl. Rogers said.

Cpl. Rogers said a bosun's mate had to be "removed" before Cassidy could get into the cabin unobserved to get the money.

Cassidy discovered the safe with the door ajar and the money tied in bundles when he went to the officer's cabin the previous night to relay a telephone message.

Semple received $3,200 of the loot, Cpl. Rogers said. There had been no recovery of this money, he said.

In a statement to the RCMP, Semple told of spending $300 in a clothing store at Alberni.

Semple said that in January Cassidy had telephoned him from Oshawa and told him a friend needed $1,000 as down payment on a house.

He put up the money on the understanding it would be paid back, Semple said, but he had not received the money.

Two months later Cassidy drove to Semple's home in Port Arthur and told him he was starting an archery business and wanted him to invest in it.

Invested $900 in Archery Business

"I had $1,900 left and I gave him $900 for a half share in the business," Semple said in his statement.

"I have not seen Cassidy since then but he told me the business was a flop," Semple said.

In the next two months Semple said he spent $900 on clothing, incidentals and liquor and had only $100 left of the money when he got married in May.

Cpl. Rogers said Buchanan helped Cassidy dispose of the money and at one time had $13 000 of the loot in his possession.

Buchanan picked up the money in June and bought a 1952 model car before returning to the coast. Buchanan, an able-bodied seaman, was stationed at HMCS Naden at the time.

Cpl. Rogers said Buchanan also got approximately $3,200 of the total amount. His share was all accounted for but none has been recovered.

At the time of his arrest last month after giving himself up as a deserter from the navy, Cassidy had stated he could not account for some $11,000 of the loot.

Subsequent investigations have proved Cassidy made false statements, Cpl. Rogers said.

'Scared to Death' By Horror Movie

CHICAGO (AP) — A coroner's physician testified Monday at an inquest that nine-year-old Stewart Cohan was literally scared to death by a horror movie. The boy toppled from his seat and died Sunday during a climatic moment in the picture, The Creeping Unkown. Dr. Albert H. Baugher testified after performing an autopsy that the boy's heart was smaller than usual, and "the boy died of a heart collapse after extraordinary tension while watching a movie."

$64,000 QUESTION REVERTS TO 7 P.M. ON CHANNELS, 11, 12

THE WEEKEND—Not so long ago we read somewhere where a Hollywood type avowed he was going to train a hawk to bring down Elvis Presley. Well, he'd better equip said hawk with oxygen tanks and maybe even a pressure chamber. Because that Presley boy is flying mighty high.

Even skating queen Sonja Henie, no mean doll with a buck, couldn't hit Ed Sullivan up the way Elvis has—$50,000 for three performances. But he's worth every penny of it as far as Sullivan's ratings are concerned. First time out he boosted the show's audience up to 60 million and more—largest viewing audience in the history of television for an ordinary show. Heaven knows what audience he had Sunday night.

And you can't deny the boy's personality. Hate him, sneer at him, do what you will, but it comes through the screen at you like a punch on the nose.

What else has he got? He's got sideburns, a guitar, shiny cars to match his pink shirts, the lead in a movie, a reported million dollars, an aggravated spinal condition, blue suede shoes, an untrained voice and the youth of Canada and the United States who greet his every spasm with squeals that would drown out a busy day at the abattoir.

And that, somehow, seems enough.

On Sunday the boy was sandwiched in between some of the best acts Sullivan has had in several weeks, notably the splendid cast from the gay Broadway musical, "The Most Happy Fella," the enchanting young people from Ireland, Senor Wences, the gentleman who can stand so superbly on one finger and comedienne Joyce Grenfell. Most of them have more talent in their little fingers than Elvis will have if he tries till his sideburns turn white and he has to use his guitar as a prop.

Will he be, in the end, like the winter and eventually pass?

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN WEDNESDAY . . .

Wednesday's child is one of those youngsters who has such a peculiar charm which is all his or her own that most everyone will fall all over themselves trying to be helpful and making life's path easier for your offspring. Therefore, it is necessary that you early teach that true character comes from earning one's own success through the talents with which one has been endowed. Then your progeny will exert himself or herself to do a much better job and be more successful than if allowed to drift without this knowledge.

City Hospitals Need 130 Beds

BCHIS Survey Urges New Institutions At Duncan, Nanaimo, Salt Spring Is.

Hospital facilities in the Greater Victoria area should be increased by 130 adult and children's beds and from 30 to 55 bassinets by 1961.

This is recommended in the report of a B.C. Hospital Insurance Service research team, published Monday after an eight-month investigation of Vancouver Island's hospital needs.

The team also recommended:

That Rest Haven Hospital and Sanitarium at Sidney should cease to provide active treatment general hospital care before 1961.

That existing hospitals at Duncan, Nanaimo and Salt Spring be replaced by new buildings.

That maternity and nursery accommodation at St. Joseph's Hospital, Comox, should be increased by redistribution without effecting any increase in the total number of beds in the hospital.

"Some departments in the two main Victoria hospitals are severely pressed for beds," a health department spokesman said. "But redistribution of beds might relieve the congestion."

Rest Haven Has Singlar Attraction

Of the Rest Haven Hospital at Sidney, the committee said:

"Rest Haven is relatively inaccessibly located but, from the number of patients from other Vancouver Island districts, not to mention those from mainland communities and points outside B.C., it has a singular attraction.

"The degree of service which this hospital is rendering to Saanich residents would preclude its classification as a community hospital," the report said.

The committee recommended a new hospital for Nanaimo before 1961 with facilities for 190 beds and 30 bassinets, with room for expansion beyond the total capacity of the initial construction.

It found that, although the present 16-bed Lady Minto Hospital on Salt Spring Island was giving "adequate care within its physical limitations," it should be replaced by a new hospital with 20 beds and 3 bassinets.

A re-distribution of beds at St. Joseph's Hospital, Comox, was recommended because of overcrowding in the maternity ward. It was urged that maternity and nursery accommodation be increased from 18 to 20 beds and 22 bassinets by 1961.

The committee urged that the King's Daughters' Hospital at Duncan be replaced immediately with a new hospital containing 165 beds and 22 bassinets.

"There should also be facilities for expansion," the committee said.

For Nanaimo, the committee recommended a new hospital with 190 beds and 30 bassinets with room for expansion beyond the total capacity of the initial construction.

A spokesman for the health department said the recommendations contained in the two-volume report "do not necessarily represent government policy but are intended as a guide to authorities."

More Immigrants Needed---Bennett

"We are short of manpower, yet the Canadian department of labor has deliberately reduced the number of immigrants to this country," Mr. Bennett said.

"It is wrong, morally and materially, that an expanding country like Canada should be denied the support of skilled workers who want to come here."

Mr. Bennett suggested the appointment of a national committee on immigration to consist of representatives of labor, industry and the federal and provincial governments.

"These representatives could advise on labor shortages existing in Canada and where the labor is most needed. Then they should be able to work out some sort of quota whereby workers from other countries could be admitted to fulfill those needs."

Mr. Bennett said the expanding economy of Canada obviously called for more manpower. Yet, ironically, people were now talking in terms of "unemployment" this coming winter.

TIME TO EXPAND

"It is so hard to understand why we should be putting the brakes on at this time," the premier continued. "Surely this is a time for expansion rather than contraction."

"Canada is an important nation, but to suggest that 16 million people are going to cause inflation is a little extreme.

"Actually there has been no inflation in the last 12 months. Wages have gone higher than the price of goods. The opposite is true when you get inflation."

CHARGE REPEATED

Mr. Bennett repeated his former charge that the government of Canada has turned its back on a policy of full-time employment this winter by raising the bank rate.

"Even if this policy does not make for less employment — as they claim — it cannot possibly make for more employment," he said.

The premier said the B.C. government would use "every effort to curb unemployment this winter."

Mayor Scurrah To Attend Two Parleys in East

Mayor Percy Scurrah will attend talks at Montreal and Ottawa next month on two matters vital to this city—freedom from federal sales tax on municipal purchasing and payment of taxes by Ottawa on federal properties in municipalities.

The talks are scheduled by the executive of the Federation of Mayors and Municipalities. The group will meet at Montreal, Nov. 21 and 22. The following day the executive will meet the federal cabinet.

Mayor Scurrah had earlier contacted Ottawa officials with regard to waiving federal taxes on steel for Point Ellice bridge. He says no tax was charged on steel used in construction of the Granville Street span in Vancouver.

However, the talks next month will be of a general nature and the mayor does not expect to deal specifically with the bridge.

On municipal compensation in lieu of taxes on federal installations has been a long-standing problem. At present the federal government pays full taxes on property values in excess of 2 per cent of the city's gross assessment. Last year Victoria received $72,000 and the next grant is expected to be $74,000.

Civil Servant Wins $2,500 For True-Life Story: "The Two-Edged Dagger"

An Ottawa civil servant who once hunted Communist guerrillas in Malaya tells about his eerie true experiences in November Reader's Digest. He is alive today only because of the strange power of a simple good-luck charm—a charm given to him by a native he was once ready to kill in cold blood.

He tells the full true story of "The Two-Edged Dagger"—how he scorned a native's superstition and how this superstition saved his own life. His story won the Reader's Digest $2,500 "First Person" Award and appears in the current issue. Get your November Reader's Digest today: 41 articles of lasting interest condensed to save your time.

'TOO MANY PARTIES'

Night Parking Curb in Parks, Saanich Aim

A proposal to ban all parking after 10.30 p.m. in parks within the Municipality of Saanich will be brought before the Victoria Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee.

This was decided by Saanich Police Commission on Monday night, after municipal council asked it to reconsider an earlier recommendation.

Council agreed that some action was necessary in Mount Tolmie Park, where, Reeve Arthur Ash said, residents "have had to put up with an awful lot."

ROWDYISM

A number of complaints have been received as the result of late night parties and rowdyism in automobiles in the area, chairman Ash told the commission.

Deputy Police Chief Bert Pearson said his department should be given some control over parking in the parks.

Youths and juvenile girls drinking in parked cars at Beaver and Elk Lakes was a continuous problem, he said.

Saanich council deemed the original commission proposal "too drastic," Reeve Ash said, and the Beaches and Parks Committee should be consulted. Deputy Chief Pearson suggested the ban might be pushed back to 11 p.m.

Restriction of Fireworks Sale Asked by Saanich Police Board

Saanich council will be asked to approve a by-law banning sale of fireworks until three days before Halloween, similar to that in the city of Victoria.

The police commission agreed Monday night to make the recommendation after Deputy Police Chief Bert Pearson said some control was needed over sales.

A number of stores in the municipality have been selling fireworks for the last three weeks, he said, and the police department has received a number of complaints.

The deputy chief disclosed that post office authorities reported mail had been destroyed in a few instances by bombs tossed into mail boxes.

Moving Performance

Members of a Canadian Legion branch have designed and built a portable outdoor stage and donated it to a Veterans' hospital. Mounted on a trailer, it can be assembled in a few minutes into a 20' x 27' stage and moved to any part of the hospital grounds.

Light, easy-to-handle aluminum was the Legion members' obvious choice of material. And in case of sudden thunderstorms, it would be a simple matter to roll the performers, stage and all, under the nearest shelter. A typical example of how aluminum often provides not just one but several advantages on a single job.

12-Hour Ultimatum to Combatants

PEACE OR WAR FOR WORLD?

GET OUT OF BUDAPEST IN 12 HOURS

Hungary Ultimatum Given Russ Troops

BUDAPEST (AP) — The Hungarian Air Force tonight threatened to attack the Russian forces unless they leave Budapest within 12 hours.

The people of Hungary today were promised a coalition government of "all democratic parties" and free Western-style elections, ending Hungary's nine years of Communist rule.

For the first time since the Communists took over the country in an armed coup in 1947, the government will include non-Communist parties—among them the Conservative smallholders and Social Democrats.

Premier Imre Nagy, the "Titoist" Communist leader swept into power at the height of the fighting last week, announced the end of one-party rule and a return to the coalition system.

'Will Be Called to Account'—Nagy

Nagy also declared that he had nothing to do with the decision a week ago to call in Soviet troops to put down the rebellion. He said the decision was taken by Communist party chief Ernoe Geroe, who has since been dismissed, and Andras Hegedues who preceded Nagy as premier.

Nagy said Geroe and Hegedues will be "called to account before the nation."

As complete victory appeared in the grasp of the anti-Russian, anti-Communist rebels, there were ominous reports of Soviet troops and several columns of Russian tanks moving on Budapest from southeastern Hungary.

Another report was that Soviet tank reinforcements were moving into Hungary from the Soviet Union through northeastern Hungary.

Dr. Zoltan Tildy, Hungarian President until the Communist takeover, followed Nagy to the microphone to announce that Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, convicted eight years ago of anti-state activities, would be restored fully to his office as primate of Hungary.

In his address, Premier Nagy appealed to the people to stand behind the "national government." He assured them that all the wrongs which had occurred since 1945 would be put right.

REBEL STRONGHOLD

Fighting slacked off at the Maia Terezia barracks, a rebel strongpoint in a week of civil war. Insurgents who had held out against Soviet tank fire marched out defiantly this morning and announced they would not put down their arms until the Russians have left Budapest.

Five Soviet tanks were still parked about 500 yards from the barracks. The government controlled radio had promised the Russians would start pulling back to their Hungarian bases at 9 a.m. "after insurgent forces start surrendering their arms." That hour passed without confirmation of any general withdrawal.

REBELS FIGHT ON

Correspondents entering the region asked the rebels why they were still fighting in the capital on the seventh day of the revolt after repeated offers of amnesty from the Nagy government.

"We are not interested in anything but that the Russkies should go home," came the unanimous reply.

Most of the insurgents in the area were youths around 20. Armed with only antiquated rifles, sub-machine-guns, and home-made gasoline bombs, they were able to hold out against the tank attacks because of their knowledge of the battleground. When the Russian fire grew too heavy, the rebels vanished into the maze of streets too narrow for tanks to penetrate.

With the Budapest holdouts were an unknown number of deserters from the Hungarian Army.

St. Laurent Confers With Ministers

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Israel's invasion of Egypt has brought a reaction of shocked dismay in Canadian government circles, prompting Prime Minister L. S. St. Laurent to confer with several of his ministers today to consider suspending shipments of Canadian jet fighters to Israel.

The government moved quickly as the whole Middle East threatened to explode into a shooting war. All Canadians in non-essential jobs in Egypt, Israel, Jordan and Syria were advised to move out.

Desert Fight Rages

Paratroopers Dropped

(At London, Prime Minister Eden told parliament that paratroopers had been dropped in the area of the Suez Canal but he did not say whether they were Egyptians or Israelis. He said the air forces of both Egypt and Israel had been active in the neighborhood of the canal).

Egyptian President Nasser was reported to have ordered a general mobilization as the fighting looked more and more like war.

In a communique, the Egyptians claimed they had "annihilated" an Israeli force west of Nakhl, about 70 miles inside of Egypt.

70-Mile Front

Israeli military spokesmen at Tel Aviv announced the capture of the Egyptian position of Qusaima, about 20 miles inside the Egyptian border.

Earlier, a two-pronged attack from Kuntilla and the head of the Gulf of Aqaba, far to the south, had been reported without confirmation to have driven almost across the peninsula to within 18½ miles of the Suez Canal.

Planes Downed

A Cairo communique said that the Egyptian Air Force shot down two Israeli aircraft, destroyed 12 Israeli armored cars and strafed Israeli troops.

These attacks were said to have taken place at El Themed, 30 miles inside Egypt from the Kuntilla jump-off point, and against Israeli troops "before the Egyptian position at Quasaima."

Tel Aviv military spokesmen announced that the Israeli Air Force also had gone into action and had attacked Egyptian convoys.

Israeli's 1,800,000 population faced a blackout tonight.

The Syrians also were reported by Damascus newspapers to have ordered a state of general mobilization. Anti-aircraft guns were erected in the Syrian capital.

Britain, France Moving Into Canal Tonight

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Eden announced tonight that Anglo-French "token" forces will move into the Suez Canal zone even if Egypt and Israel accept an Anglo-French ultimatum to quit fighting before 8.30 p.m. (Victoria Time) tonight.

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain and France today warned Israel and Egypt to withdraw their military forces 10 miles from the Suez Canal within 12 hours or Anglo-French troops would move into the zone "in whatever strength may be necessary to secure compliance."

British Prime Minister Eden revealed to a tense House of Commons that the warnings were sent to Tel Aviv and Cairo after his meeting here at noon with French Premier Guy Mollet.

. . . 'Will Intervene'

Eden also disclosed that Britain and France had asked Egypt to agree that Anglo-French forces should in any case move temporarily to key positions in the canal zone.

Eden said the communications to Israel and Egypt also called upon them to "stop all warlike action by land, sea and air forthwith." He said the two governments had been asked to reply "by the early hours tomorrow morning" but, he added, "I hope they will reply tonight."

A foreign office spokesman said the ultimatum will expire at 4.30 a.m. tomorrow (8.30 p.m. Tuesday, Victoria Time).

Eden also said that Israel assured the British ambassador in Tel Aviv Monday that Israeli forces would not attack Jordan.

Britain and France sent the 12-hour warning to Israel and Egypt less than 24 hours after the Israeli attack had been launched.

"It has been made clear to them that, if at the expiration of that time, one or both have not undertaken to comply with these requirements, British and French forces will intervene in whatever strength may be necessary to secure compliance," Eden said.

Eden said that Israeli forces had penetrated deep into Egyptian territory and reports had been received indicating that paratroops had been dropped.

"I must tell the House that very grave issues are at stake and unless hostilities can quickly be stopped free passage through the canal will be jeopardized."

. . . Stop All War Action

Eden said the British and French governments have agreed everything possible should be done to bring hostilities to an end as quickly as possible.

Eden said that in the communications to the governments of Egypt and Israel the British and French governments "called upon both sides to stop all warlike action by land, sea and air forthwith and to withdraw their military forces to a distance of 10 miles from the canal."

The prime minister's announcement was greeted with cheers.

Russia, U.S. Denounce Israel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Russia and the United States joined today in demanding that the UN Security Council order the immediate withdrawal of Israeli forces from Egyptian territory.

At the same time, Russia called on the council to warn Britain and France against any military intervention in the Israeli-Egyptian conflict.

Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev read a news dispatch from London saying Britain and France had agreed their forces would occupy key positions in the Suez Canal area unless Israel and Egypt stop fighting within 12 hours.

This, Sobolev said, was a pretext for sending their troops into the area.

U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. appealed to all countries to refrain from giving Israel any assistance, but he did not refer specifically to the British-French move.

The delegates, one after the other, denounced Israel's action as clear-cut aggression and urged the council to act quickly to end the fighting.

'Premeditated Move' Says Egypt

Egyptian Ambassador Omar Loutfi called the Israeli attack a premeditated move designed to "bring about war" in the Middle East. He demanded that Israel be expelled from the UN.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban said he wanted to reserve his right to speak later. He said:

"I am still at this moment without complete information on the course of these operations and information from Jerusalem is reaching me at this time."

Lodge told the council the U.S. would present a formal proposal at another meeting of the council this afternoon calling for an immediate end of the hostilities and withdrawal of the Israeli forces.

He appealed to all members of the council to refrain from giving Israel any assistance or from taking "advantage of the

Ike Stops Politicking To Deal With Crisis

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower today cancelled his scheduled campaign trip to the southwest and south Wednesday because of the Middle East crisis.

Mr. Eisenhower was to have made airport speeches at Dallas, Tex., Oklahoma City, Okla., and Memphis, Tenn., Wednesday. But he telegraphed his supporters at all three cities and said he must remain at the White House.

"The turn of events yesterday leaves me no option, in the interest of workng for peace, but to remain at the White House Wednesday to deal with the situation developing in the Middle East," Mr. Eisenhower said.

"Failure of the council to react at this time," Lodge said, "would be a clear avoidance of its responsibilities for the maintenance of international peace and security."

Jordan formally urged the council to end the fighting. At the same time, Jordan warned that it would go to the aid of Egypt in fulfillment of its treaty obligations.

The United Nations, which requested the council meeting, was reported considering asking UN members to take major economic and diplomatic reprisals against the Israelis.

State Secretary Dulles asked France and Britain to join in seeking council action. The Western Big Three, under a 1950 declaration, are joint guarantors of the Arab-Israeli demarcation lines.

The British informant said Prime Minister Eden's government was standing fully by the letter and spirit of the 1950 declaration, and was ready to join the United States and France in implementing it. To aid the Egyptians, Britain has available the air, land and sea forces she rushed to the eastern Mediterranean when President Nasser seized the Suez Canal.

Officials hoped Israel might back down before counter-attacks by Jordan, Egypt and othe rcountries turn the limited fighting into a full-scale conflict.

Alarmed authorities conceded, however, that it might already be too late to patch up the jittery peace between Israel and its Arab foes.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Hotel Groups Split Over Beer Profits

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—The activities of what was called "another group in recent convention" was criticized here Monday by Fred Evans of Vancouver, president of the Hotel Operators and Innkeepers' Society of British Columbia.

He said the group's activities, seeking public endorsement of their "never-ending pursuit of more beer profits," had brought the whole hotel industry into public ridicule."

The selling of beer was, to the true hotel operator, merely one department in his whole operation, said Mr. Evans. Costs had gone up, but under prevailing conditions there was a worthwhile profit in the operation of public house licences.

At a recent convention here members of the B.C. Hotelmen's Association urged, because of high operating costs, a smaller beer glass to offset the higher costs.

The hotel operators and innkeepers' society represents 25 top hotels in the province, Mr. Evans said. It represents ownership of properties valued at more than $70,000,000.

Victoria Tug Gets New Tow In Pacific

The Victoria-based deep-sea salvage tug Ss. Sudbury today is outward bound, instead of homeward bound, far out in the Pacific, after reversing course to aid another towboat.

On Saturday, the Sudbury, owned by Island Tug & Barge, reached the Salvage Chief of Portland to aid her in towing a salvaged freighter, the Nozima Maru, to Japan.

Sudbury had been on her way back to this port after towing scrap steel to Japan. She had made about 2,000 miles of the return journey when she turned to the assistance of the Salvage Chief.

The Nozima Maru was sunk by bombing during the Second World War, near Kiska. The crew of the Portland tug raised her, but found difficulty making headway with the heavy tow, and messaged for assistance.

MIDDLE EAST CRISIS LEGAL TANGLE

(AP and UP Dispatches)

LONDON — Under Egypt's 1954 agreement with Britain for evacuation of the Suez Canal zone, Britain has the right to reoccupy her former zone bases in case the waterway and Egypt itself are threatened by attack.

But the two agreed, outside the published text of the treaty, that the clause would be invoked only in case of an attack by the Soviet Union.

The legal authority that would permit Britain to reoccupy its Suez Canal bases is contained in article 4 of the Anglo-Egyptian agreement.

It says: "In the event of an armed attack by an outside power on any country which . . . is a party to the Arab League states treaty of defence of 1950, or on Turkey, Egypt shall afford to Britain such facilities as may be necessary in order to place the base on a war footing and to operate it effectively."

An authoritative source said Britain fully stands by the letter and spirit of a 1950 American-British-French declaration on the Middle East and is prepared to join the U.S. and France in implementing it.

The declaration binds the Western Big Three immediately to "take action both within and without the United Nations" to prevent any Israeli or Arab violation of Middle East frontiers or armistice lines.

Egypt theoretically could call on the Big Three Western powers for help. But Egypt never recognized the 1950 declaration and might feel too politically proud to make such a call.

Season Closing In

THE bluebills and butterballs have led winter's waterfowl flotillas back into the bay. They cruise their erratic courses over the surface, ignoring the year-round cormorants standing in ungainly and funereal dignity on the offshore rocks.

Stott

The gulls, noisy bandits, float casually on the grey water, lifting in short flight to worry any duck that dives and surfaces with a fish in its bill.

Across the strait snow creeps lower down the hills. The season is closing in.

Already the gales have claimed their tribute. A small boat, left too long at its mooring, has broken away and died—a thing of shattered sides, smashed bottom and jagged planking—under the pound of storm-driven drift logs.

Rain has darked the bright sands where children played and sun-bathers dreamed the summer away. Only the beachcomber walks the shore now, gathering a wet harvest of bark, piling odd bits of lumber against the bank, squinting seaward to watch the tide for its casual freight.

SMOKES OF AUTUMN

Borders were flowers made their bright debut in spring and matured to full luxuriance in summer are ragged now. The dead stalks of late growth suspend their sodden blossoms, blackening.

In the kitchen garden the potatoes have been dug, the pea vines stripped, the stakes collected and the plants dug in for compost. Only the late greens are thriving, cabbages threatening to burst their tight-drawn vests and sprouts firming under their heavy shade fronds.

It is the time when the husbandman should survey his ground, thankful for the goodness it has given him, and make his plans for next year's planting.

IMITATION OF AN IMITATION

At least it should be time for this. But it isn't. This is the season when the record player bounces and moans to the new hits of the younger set, when the broken voice of adolescence rises in a poor imitation of someone who seems a poor imitation in the original.

It is the time when a conscientious helpmeet reminds her spouse that Jack Beastal says heavy soil should be turned for airing in the garden—and we really must get out and tidy things up a bit.

It is a time when kids in high school insist that their memory work be heard, torture lovely lines and mispronounce their words.

It is a time when those little chores show up—the small repairs to the kitchen cabinet doors, the paint-washing job that has been left too long, the work on the window that stuck last spring.

A man, with great good fortune, can escape to his basement, if he has a basement, but serenity does not lie there beside his work bench. A basement isn't a masculine sanctuary any more. A clothes line has been strung in it—where else? You can't dry clothes outside this weather.

So, if a man still has some measure of luck, he can pull on his boots and heavy sweater and wander in the dusk to the shore.

There he can see the bluebills and the butterballs seeking roosts on floating logs, and perhaps a broken piece of boat shining white as it rubs against the rocks in evening's gentle swell.

YOUR HEALTH — By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

I have just read a remarkable book which ought to be studied by every intelligent person in the United States. It is called "Every Other Bed" (World) and is by Mike Gorman, executive director of the National Mental Health Committee. Commonly, when I write a column about the terrible problems of mental disease, a number of people write angrily to say, "What are you talking about that for? You don't know anything about it. You had better keep your mouth shut." These people, of course, don't know that I have spent most of my life studying neuroses and mild psychoses, and that I have written three big books on the subject. But that is just by the way. What delights me is that here is a man who writes authoritatively about "America's number one health problem." No one can tell him that he doesn't know what he is talking about. Anyone who will read his book, filled as it is with thousands of facts, will see that he knows well what the problem is.

Dr. Alvarez

Mr. Gorman was trained in psychiatry; he has attended the meetings of one legislative committee after another; he has read widely, he has worked with leading psychiatrists; and he has gathered a tremendous amount of important information. He quotes Dr. Robert H. Felix, director of the National Institute of Mental Health, who when he was testifying before a Congressional committee, said, "Today there are 9,000,000 people in the United States suffering from some form of mental illness severe enough to warrant treatment. Few get good treatment. If there were 9,000,000 people suffering from typhoid fever—or merely 900,000—we would mass all our public health preventive efforts into a gigantic effort to smash so crippling an epidemic.

"No one denies that mental illness and other personality disturbances are usually significant factors in producing criminal behavior, juvenile delinquency, suicide, alcoholism, drug addiction, and the breaking up of marriages. How can we over-estimate the seriousness of the problem?"

Just one of the U.S. states spent last year $160,000,000 for the care of its mentally ill. This was about 38 per cent of the entire state-purposes budget. And to do right by the insane, the state should have spent much more. In the year 1955 the Veterans' Administration spent $632,000,000 on the care of mentally disturbed veterans! The cost of mental disease to the U.S. must now run about $2,500,000,000 a year. Worse yet, this expense is becoming greater all the time.

There are some clinics for the psychiatric help of patients, but I read that even in New York City, where there are more clinics per person than anywhere else, a mentally disturbed person has to wait from six months to a year before he can get an appointment!

I like Mr. Gorman's feelings of disgust with the way things have been going in the field of psychiatry. As he said, "If there is an angry note of impatience in this book, it is long accumulated and difficult to restrain. Eleven years ago, when as a newspaper man I started waving the reek and stench of our state mental hospitals under the public's nostrils, I thought American know-how would make short work of deficiencies in the system." But, as he says, there was little chance of breaking down "the powerful resistance of the self-appointed guardians of the past."

Since then, Mr. Gorman has written and lectured and taken an active part in mental health reform movements in a number of states. Gradually he has come to see that little can be accomplished by sporadic efforts. The people of America, as a whole, will have to wake up some day and face the terrible situation. As he says, "We have made a small beginning, but the typical state hospital of today is an anachronism. It is still incredibly isolated from the man stream of American medicine. It's sad to say it, but medicine has largely turned its back on this terrible problem."

For a while Mr. Gorman felt like writing from the heart and letting "the hot adjectives fall where they might," but he decided that this might not help. I sympathize deeply with him because often it is all I can do to keep from lashing out at some of the quacks and quackery in psychiatry. Mr. Gorman and I take our hats off to Dr. Will Menniger, "who spends 100 days out of every year travelling about, pleading with industrial tycoons, Rotarians, Kiwanians, Lions, Elks, Eagles and sundry others to support psychiatric research."

Mental Homes Held Obsolete

Treat Mental Cases in Hospitals, Vancouver's Dr. Ranta Says Here

He spoke at Victoria College Monday night at a public lecture sponsored by the Victoria University Extension Association.

"Since the horse-and-buggy days of medicine, the battle has been between medical science and death," he said. "Now disease is the adversary—and the major challenge to medical science is the chronic "long-term disease."

Dr. Ranta cited the field of mental illness where government institutions have "tried to correct the product of an abnormal environment by a second abnormal environment."

"Mental illness will remain remote, isolated and a growing problem unless the mental institutions are brought back to the main road of medicine," he said.

Mental Branch in All General Hospitals

"The medical profession must become aware of this problem. Mental branches should become an integral part of every general hospital that has a mental worker associated with it.

"We must discard the cumbersome, rather obsolete method of admitting patients to an institution. A mental patient should be able to receive mental treatment in the same environment as he would treatment for appendicitis."

The hospitals must expand their services to become a pivot point for the care of all long-term patients, he said.

"They must permit a flow of modern facilities with the least possible friction and red tape instead of providing fragmentary services divided among organizations. These services are sometimes jealously guarded to the point that the service sometimes seems more important than the individual served."

SIX-POINT PROGRAM

He outlined the following changes needed in hospital care of the long-term patient:

(1) Actual facilities for care must be built into the hospitals that will be special and different from facilities for short-term patients.

(2) There must be a change in the present attitude that the problems of long-term patients will be solved by building chronic hospitals.

"I've never entered one without feeling in some parts of it the elements of stagnation of medical care," he said.

(3) Restorative medicine must become a team job that involves the doctor and all his allies—psychotherapist, physiotherapist, medical health officers and welfare.

(4) Hospital services must be extended into the home, based on the understanding that the majority of patients are best treated in familiar surroundings.

(5) The hospital's out-patient services must be extended in order to assist the private doctor with his patients.

(6) Nursing homes should organize into associations which have direct liaison with the general hospitals to ensure continuance of hospital services.

"I don't think nursing homes were meant to be the end of the road for patients," Dr. Ranta said. "Few efforts have been made anywhere to elevate the professional standards of nursing homes."

ELECTRICAL'S NOT THE WORD, BOY

How Our Neighbors Choose a President

To clear up some of this confusion a Times reporter today interviews a mythical U.S. senator. The results of the interview follow:

Q. Excuse me, sir, but my name is Horace Snifkin, and I am a Canadian. You are, sir, a U.S. Senator, I believe?

A. That I am, my friend.

Q. I don't understand how your election works.

A. Why not? It's simple, son, simple. What'cha want to know?

Q. What is this thing, the electrical college?

A. "Electoral," son, electoral. Been going since 1787.

Q. And how is it made up?

A. Well, y' see, son, the founding fathers were a bit worried about letting people mark their ballots direct for the president.

Q. So what?

A. So they decided the people should first elect an electoral college.

Q. And who runs the electoral college?

A. Oh, they're just a bunch of people you never heard of out your way. The political parties pick 'em.

Q. Y'got me confused, Senator. Why vote for 'em if they're nobody?

A. Well, son. T'aint quite that way. They got only one job to do, but it's a big one.

Q. And that is?

A. Son, they all go down to Washington, D.C. There they have a meeting and decide who'll be president.

Q. Supposing they don't want Mr. Eisenhower or Mr. Stevenson. Could they appoint someone else?

A. Could be, son, could be. But it don't work that way. They're pledged in advance for the ticket of their party. So everybody knows how they're going to vote before they meet.

Q. Seems a waste of time to me, Senator. Isn't it?

A. Not so, son. Supposing the elected man died right after the election? Y'gotta have somebody as president and y' wouldn't pick the loser. Y'd pick somebody from the winning party, wouldn't you? In law they don't have to pick the man who heads the party with the most votes. But by custom they always do.

Q. And how many are there in the electrical college?

A. Electoral, boy. There's 531. There's one "college" man for each of the 96 senators and for each of the 435 in the House of Representatives.

Q. And does this college elect the senators and the congressmen, too?

Got to Get Elected By Ourselves

A. No, son, not them. We've got to get elected by ourselves. Our names go on the ballots. The electoral college only elects the president and vice-president.

Q. You got me baffled, Senator. In our country the party that elects the most members names the prime minister. Doesn't it work that way with you?

A. Why no, boy. The presidential election is quite separate. Why, it can happen that the Grand Old Party gets the presidency and those Demos control both the House and the Senate.

Q. Now about the 96 senators and 435 congressmen. Are they all running next Tuesday?

A. No, son, 61 of the Senators are "hold-overs" so only 35 will be sweatin' it out. Three of the House members were elected in Maine last September 10. The other 432 are on the stump now.

Q. I'm a little confused, I'm afraid. What is a "hold-over"?

A. A feller whose term isn't up. Y'see, Senators are elected for six-year terms and some are hold-overs from the '52 and '54 elections. The Representatives are elected every two years.

Q. But to get back to the president. I thought you people voted for him. Suppose I was an American and wanted to vote for Ike. Can't I?

A. Well, yes and no, son. You won't find his name on the ballot. But if you vote the straight Republican ticket—peace and prosperity, son, and all you Canadians ought to have a vote, yessir—your vote is taken to be a vote for Ike, and is added in with the others to make a presidential total.

Q. Er, ah . . . yes. And so the electoral college thing really decides it all?

A. Yeah, son, the man getting 266 electoral college votes or more is the new president. That's a straight majority.

Q. Has each state the same number?

A. No, son, no. Washington, for instance, has 9, Oregon 6 and California 32. They all add up to 531.

Q. I see. But I have heard that it's possible for a candidate with the largest popular vote to lose the election.

A. True, son, true.

Q. This makes sense?

A. Of course. The party getting the majority of electoral college votes in each state gets the support of the entire group of "electors" in each state. But it's the electoral college majority that counts, not the popular vote.

Q. Does this happen very often?

A. If Ike wins but the Senate and House remain Democratic, it will be the second time. In 1848 Zachary Taylor, a Whig, was elected president and the Democrats took the Senate and House.

Q. Is it possible to divide the control of the Senate and the House?

A. It's happened twice, son. In 1876, the Republicans put Rutherford B. Hayes in the White House (he was awarded the election by a special commission) and kept control of the Senate, but the Demos won in the House.

Couldn't Wangle Control of Senate

Q. And . . .?

A. In 1884, the Demos elected Grover Cleveland to his first term, retained control of the House, but could not wangle Senate control from the Republicans.

Q. I see. But another thing puzzles me. How long are these gentlemen elected for?

A. Senators for six years—Representatives every two years.

Q. Can they learn their jobs in that time?

A. Yer darn tootin'.

Q. How much does it cost a Senator to get elected—campaign expenses, and all that?

A. Read a piece the other day that estimated around $200,000.

Q. And the whole election?

A. Hard to say, son. Same article figured around $30 millions. That ain't hay, son.

Q. No indeed. Now, sir, will you refresh my memory? What was the outcome last time?

A. Nothing to it, son. Ike got 33,937,252 votes, a new record. Stevenson got 27,314,992.

Q. What about the electorial college votes?

A. "Electoral," son, electoral. Ike carried 39 of the 48 states and got 442 electoral votes. A rout, son, a rout.

Q. But Stevenson did very well in the popular vote, did he not?

A. Depends how you look at it, son. He was only 161,681 short of FDR's record in 1936.

Q. And how many college votes did he get?

A. He carried nine states for 89 electoral votes.

Q. Aha. But I've been seeing all kinds of things on Seattle television that don't seem to have much to do with the presidency. Aren't there some other people running?

A. Yes, son, there's 29 state Governors up for election. That's a separate ballot and there's lots of others for state offices.

Q. I seem to recall that Huey Long's brother has already been elected?

A. Right. That vote was last Jan. 17. And Edmund Muskie went in in Maine on Sept. 10.

Q. Whew.

A. Y'understand, son? Quite simple, the whole thing.

Q. Yes, isn't it. And now, one last question. Who, Senator, is going to win?

A. That's a tough one, son. But of one thing you may be sure. . . .

Q. Yes. . . .?

A. From the rock-bound coasts of Maine, to the sunny slopes of California, the peep-ul of this great nation will vote for peace, prosperity, progress and happiness which will be ensured if I, Senator. . . .

UNIFORMS CAN BE FUN — when you don't have to wear 'em, and all the discipline involved is strictly self-applied. So say these pre-teenagers of Monterey School, who have decided that ancient cadet gear uncovered during demolishing of old Oak Bay High School are just the thing for study and play. Inspection by no-doubt major-general reveals several faults which may lead to KP duty. But the troops can always turn in their uniforms.

BETWEEN TIMES

By

MONTE ROBERTS

On this, the eve of Cat Week, I am in receipt of an invitation from the American Feline Society, Inc., 41 Union Square West, New York 3, N.Y., U.S.A.

Divide nine into $250, and what do you get? (or should I multiply? Cats do.)

Any way you work it out, it is not the price which prompts me to refuse the honor of a life membership in the American Feline Society.

I have been leary of joining any United States organization since the advent of congressional committees investigating past associations.

I would hate to have a committee of congress decide association with cats was an indication of subversive leanings.

And the way committees of congress have been acting recently, even a perfectly innocent association with wide-eyed kittens might be misinterpreted.

No, I will keep away from joining U.S. organizations. If I join anything feline, it will be the good old Canadian Cats' Protection League.

I have often thought it would give one a cozy, secure feeling to be under the protection of cats.

It is just a matter of common sense to keep cats on your side. At last count, there were about 21,000,000 cats on this continent, give or take a litter or two.

I would rather have 21,000,000 cats for me than against me.

That is one reason I have long and diligently campaigned for equal rights for cats.

When Cat Week opens, which is on Sunday, Nov. 4, I hope many more disciples will join in this equal rights campaign.

Why should dogs alone be privileged to have their names and addresses duly registered on the tax rolls of the cities and municipalities?

Why should cats be denied the protection of registration?

Cat lovers of the world, arise.

Demand equal rights for cats.

First the right to be licenced; then the right to vote.

When 21,000,000 cats have the franchise—as well as the licence—the word will be "as cats go, so goes the nation."

TOTAL OF $450 was raised at a fall fair in Sir James Douglas School auditorium Friday. The annual event was sponsored by the PTA under new president Mrs. W. B. Laing (above), 1336 Carnsew. Honorary president is . . J. Stevenson, principal; vice-president, T. H. Smith; recording secretary, Mrs. W. Crothall; corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. A. Zala, and publicity chairman, Mrs. H. B. Kelly. Convener of the fair was T. G. Sewell.

House Building Shows Decrease

Central Mortgage & Housing Corporation reported today a total of 1,097 "house starts" since the beginning of the year, as compared with 1,425 in 1955.

The figures include all homes under construction or completed in Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt during the past 10 months.

Trustees Back Mayor In Pinball Ban Drive

'Small Time Racket Must End,' Says Board

Greater Victoria School Board today threw its weight behind a drive by Mayor Percy Scurrah to outlaw pinball machines in Victoria.

Board chairman W. H. Golby said the matter was discussed by the board in camera. At its next meeting the board will pass a resolution of support to the mayor.

Following reports of payoffs and wide open gambling Mayor Scurrah recently asked council for a ban but council delayed action pending further investigation. The mayor is expected to make a report on investigations he since has carried out.

Mr. Golby called for action without further delay:

"Although it may be difficult to obtain gambling convictions in many cases, there have been enough convictions to prove these machines are morally wrong and detrimental to the youth of the community.

"What other reason does the council need to ban them?

"There are plenty of legitimate vending machines to fill the gap in income which removal of these machines would incur for some merchants."

He said he would ask why the machines are banned in Esquimalt and Oak Bay and not in the city and Saanich. What one municpal council can do another can repeat, he felt.

"Why spend millions trying to teach youngsters the difference between right and wrong and then sell out for a few paltry licences?"

The city licenses about 60 machines and gains an annual income of about $3,600 from this source.

"Either the council hasn't the courage of its convictions or is in a complete state of apathy to this teen-age menace. Pinball machines are not played for nickels but for big payoffs," the school board chairman said.

"When a borderline delinquent needs money to gamble he steals or worse. I cannot endorse this attitude of leniency to a provenly dishonest small time racket.

"There are enough problems in the world for our youth to solve without having an insidious form of gambling openly tolerated."

$3,000 QUOTA FOR CHILDREN

Objective of $3,000 has been set for the Vancouver Island "Save the Children Fund" Halloween.

More than 2,000 children attending Sunday schools on the Island, will collect money for the fund in cans provided by Vancouver Island representative Mrs. W. W. McGill, Tattersal Drive.

On Halloween of last year, $2,500 was collected. The money was sent to underprivileged children in Europe and Asia.

Ash Hopeful After Bond Guarantee Talk

A "measure of encouragement" for the idea of provincial aid to municipalities in essential works projects was given in a meeting Monday between municipal affairs minister Wesley Black and Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash.

Mr. Ash said the minister intimated cabinet consideration would be given to the suggestion the province guarantee debenture bond issues to cover large projects such as sewerage.

Rapidly expanding municipalities like Saanich find themselves in a difficult position when attempting to borrow the large amounts of money required for big works projects.

Manslaughter Charge Against Woman Driver

A charge of manslaughter was read in city police court today to Mrs. Audrey Winnifred Lowe, 426 Niagara, in connection with the traffic death Oct. 18 of Mrs. Mary Lush.

Mrs. Lowe, represented by counsel Lloyd McKenzie, was remanded to Nov. 6 to fix a date for preliminary hearing.

Mrs. Lowe was identified by police as the driver of a car that collided with another auto in which Mrs. Lush was a passenger at Simcoe and Government, Oct. 15. The accident occurred at about 11 p.m.

Mrs. Lush, 60, of 211 Cook, died in St. Joseph's Hospital three days later.

LUNG PUNCTURED

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

Mrs. Lush was a passenger in a car driven by her sister, Miss Lillian Barton, 1044 McClure.

Mrs. Lillian Dixon, 145 Michigan, a passenger in the Lowe car, testified at the inquest that Mrs. Lush said immediately after the accident:

City Scouter, Major Hunter, Dies at 76

Major Hugh B. Hunter, DSO, an active leader in the Victoria Boy Scout movement for 20 years, died today in Royal Jubilee Hospital. He was 76.

Major Hunter retired as secretary of the local association in 1955 after six years' service. He was previously a district commissioner and received a number of honors for his scouting activities.

He was recently presented with the Scouts "gold thanks badge" by Scout leaders of the district. He held the long service medal of merit and bar, and the Gilwell wood bead badge.

Maj. Hunter

In 1937 Maj. Hunter was honored by friends and associates on his completion of 25 years' service with Huron and Erie Mortgage Corporation and The Canada Trust Company. He was manager of the Victoria branch and retired from the firm in 1948.

Born in Scotland, he enlisted with the Imperial forces in 1915 and was in active service for four years, being awarded the Distinguished Service Order.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Friday in Christ Church Cathedral. Cremation will follow.

Downtown Lounge Asked for Aged

A downtown lounge and reception centre for elderly people, to be combined with offices of the newly formed Community Chest agency for senior citizens, was proposed today as an ideal centennial year project for Greater Victoria.

Director of the Red Feather agency, Glen Hamilton, said he will forward the idea to the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee.

"It would be an appropriate memorial for the centennial year in that it would honor and give comfort to many of the pioneers who built this community and other parts of B.C. during the bulk of the last 100 years," Mr. Hamilton said.

The old folks agency would have its office there and carry out its work of locating jobs, arranging recreation, and providing aid and comforts for shut-in pensioners.

Greater Victoria will receive a grant of about $70,000 next year for a centennial memorial project if Victoria, Esquimalt, Saanich and Esquimalt match the gift.

The $140,000 project fund would be sufficient for extensive renovation, or a new building, the social worker thought.

MANY REQUESTS

The Senior Citizens' Agency, the 20th to join Community Chest, opened its doors at Spencerhouse Monday. Since then the phone has been busy with requests and offers of aid.

A housekeeper was placed in the home of a bed-ridden woman after her husband went to hospital. An old man was moved to a new home by a volunteer driver. Arrangements were made with another volunteer driver for an 84-year-old man to visit his wife at a Colwood rest home.

Mr. Hamilton said one of the greatest needs to assure success of the agency is a body of volunteer helpers to assist in finding employment, accommodations, transportation and housekeeping services. Volunteers, or persons needing assistance should phone Mr. Hamilton at 2-5121.

ASK The TIMES

Q. How old is concrete in the history of construction? D.R.D.

A. The Cyclopedia of Canada briefly and lucidly sets it forth as follows: "The principal ingredient of concrete is more specifically known as Portland cement, the great advantage of which over hydraulic or natural cement is uniformity and strength. It was invented by Joseph Aspdin of Leeds, England, and began to figure prominently on the English and Continental markets about 1850, but was not manufactured in America until 1870. In Canada the department of mines report for 1856, the first official record, states that a Major Bradley, R.E., made hydraulic cement from black limestone of Quebec. Earlier, however, between 1830 and 1840, it is known that Ruggles Wright made lime and hydraulic cement at Hull, Que. The works at Hull and at Thorold, Ont., produced a good quality of natural cement till 1887, when imported Portland cement began to flood the market."

$900 MORE NEEDED

V.I. Gives $1,580 To Stratford Fund

Vancouver Island contributions to the Stratford Permanent Theatre Fund stand at $1,580, it was announced today.

The drive, announced earlier this year, is to erect at Stratford a permanent home for the Stratford Shakespearian Festival, to become the "Old Vic" of Canada.

A nation-wide appeal was launched under Col. Max Meighen of Toronto for $1.5 million, two-thirds of which has already been raised.

The theatre is now under construction in Stratford.

Vancouver Island chairman, Stuart Keate, said fund officials were "greatly encouraged" by contributions from this area, which had come from large industries as well as private citizens.

"It was generally felt that, if we could raise $2,500 of the $1.5 million total, Vancouver Island would have made a fine contribution to this national project," Mr. Keate said.

Plans are to hold contributions open until November 15, with the hope that an additional $900 may be raised in that time. Cheques should be sent to Mr. Keate at the Times, and will be receipted from Stratford for income tax purposes.

SHOPPING GUIDE

'We Can Cook, Too!' Gives Inside Story on Recipes

By PENNY SAVER

Now here is a real book!

Under the glaring orange and black cover lettered in brilliant blue are recipes compiled by the Montreal branch of the Canadian Women's Press Club. The book is called "We Can Cook, Too!"

Recipes hot off the press have been gathered together by women of the Montreal Press Club, and illustrations to tickle your fancy as well as your palate have been contributed by various illustrators. You'll recognize the characters as you come across them.

Newspaper people have a language all their own, and you can discover some of the favorite cliches, expressions and gibberish as well as favorite recipes in this wonderful book.

A touch of poetry here, some prose there, and some down-to-earth cooking advice is liberally mixed in the book's ingredients. Everything from wild west spaghetti and chicken and dumplings to the boeuf bourguinonne and cold Singhalese soup give this novel recipe book a distinct flavor with just a hint of printer's ink.

The names of the various preparations are sometimes slightly fantastic . . . just enough to make you want to try them. Irish coffee, heavenly hash, kugelhupf (Latvian pound cake) Alsatian sauerkraut, Balkan braised lamb and pilaff a l'Americaine are just a few of the tempting names for tempting dishes.

You can obtain these books easily. Call me and I'll tell you how. They'd make good gifts and with Christmas coming along you'll want one yourself, even if only to get the recipe for Yorkshire rib binders, a holiday special.

The books are $2 each and are bound with a metal stationary coil. There are 128 pages in all and each one is a revelation. I think you'll enjoy the book. I certainly have.

While on the subject of food, preparation and serving, I'll tell you about the gourmet hound I found. He's a dachshund, divided up into six sections. You can make him long or short, depending on how many of the sections, which are serving dishes, you use. Pickles, dips, and all kinds of tidbits (all of which you'll find in the "We Can Cook Too!" recipe book) can be served from this handy hound. Of glazed pottery, it would make an appreciated wedding present. It's $14.50.

My number is 2-3131. Phone me and I'll tell you where to find the items mentioned here.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

About a wedding anniversary gift:

When a girl and boy are about to become engaged, would it be proper for them to go together to get a wedding anniversary gift for the boy's parents or would it be better to do it separately?

Louise Davis answers:

I suggest being on the safe side and doing it separately. At this point the engagement isn't "signed and sealed." The boy's parents might consider it presumptuous and the girl doesn't want to start off the relationship on the wrong foot. Many parents dread the day when they must realize their boy is thinking about flying from their nest to set up one of his own.

Louise Davis

Even if she is engaged, it would be better for the girl to send a card of best wishes and congratulations and pass up any gift unless it be flowers. Engagements are sometimes broken and how would parents feel every time they look at a beautiful silver tray that their son and his former girl sent them for the 25th wedding anniversary?

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Can Do These Exercises Even in Cramped Quarters

It is true that many of the valuable figure molding exercises require quite a large space. When I taught classes there was only room for 18 pupils on a large floor, when they were doing certain exercises. I am sure that this discourages many women from making these motions for beauty at home.

In a small apartment some are impossible. In a large room these usually involve furniture moving. Even then you may skin your shin-bone on a chair or find your head under the divan.

In the case of waist reduction many of the slimming exercises are bending exercises which take no room at all. Abdominal exercises require practically no space. Lots of the most effective hip and thigh reducing exercises do involve a lot of territory. However there are other fine ones which do not.

Today I want to give you a couple of exercises which you can do even if you live in a tiny apartment. The following one is good for the hips and abdomen: Lie on the floor on your left side. Place your right hand on the floor in front of you for balance. As you swing the right leg forward swing the left leg backward. As the left leg swings forward the right moves backward. I call this one The Scissors. One leg swings forward as the other swings back. Once you start keep this up but be sure to reach as far in each direction as possible and to keep your knees stiff. The swing comes from the hips.

This one will reduce the back hipline. Sit on the floor with your legs extending out in front of you on the floor. Lean back, lifting your legs from the floor until your body weight falls directly over the largest part of your hips. Roll from side to side, catching yourself with your hands. Keep the knees straight throughout.

Here is another small-space exercise: Lie on the floor on your back with your arms on the floor, at right angles to your body. Palms cling to the floor as you roll from side to side. Keep the knees stiff and the entire body touching the floor.

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 30, "Exercises for Small Space," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Gunman, Would-Be Victim Both Run

VANCOUVER (CP)—Waiter George Munro didn't stop when a gunman threatened him in a Canadian Legion Branch beer parlor today.

"Get on the floor and give me your money," the gunman shouted to the barman and three waiters.

"I just walked away from him," said Munro. "When I got to the bar I started to run and I never stopped until I was out of the door." The gunman fled leaving $800 in potential loot.

Canada-Hungary Trade Pact Clearing

OTTAWA (CP) — An External Affairs Department spokesman said today Canada expects the situation in Hungary will be clarified to a point where a Canada-Hungary trade agreement can be signed "in a few days."

The spokesman said the drafting of the agreement has been completed "and we are happy with the results." But the situation in Hungary had raised "a number of imponderables" which Canada believed would in all likelihood be cleared up in a few days.

Desert Fight Rages

CAIRO (CP) — Egyptian and Israeli troops and airmen clashed deep within Egypt's Sinai Peninsula today.

(At London, Prime Minister Eden told parliament that paratroopers had been dropped in the area of the Suez Canal but he did not say whether they were Egyptians or Israelis. He said the air forces of both Egypt and Israel had been active in the neighborhood of the canal).

In a communique, the Egyptians claimed they had "annihilated" an Israeli force west of Nakhl, about 70 miles inside of Egypt.

GET OUT OF BUDAPEST IN 12 HOURS

Hungary Ultimatum Given Russ Troops

BUDAPEST (AP) — The Hungarian Air Force tonight threatened to attack the Russian forces unless they leave Budapest within 12 hours.

The people of Hungary today were promised a coalition government of "all democratic parties" and free Western-style elections, ending Hungary's nine years of Communist rule.

For the first time since the Communists took over the country in an armed coup in 1947, the government will include non-Communist parties—among them the Conservative smallholders and Social Democrats.

Premier Imre Nagy, the "Titoist" Communist leader swept into power at the height of the fighting last week, announced the end of one-party rule and a return to the coalition system.

'Will Be Called to Account'—Nagy

Nagy also declared that he had nothing to do with the decision a week ago to call in Soviet troops to put down the rebellion. He said the decision was taken by Communist party chief Ernoe Geroe, who has since been dismissed, and Andras Hegedues who preceded Nagy as premier.

Nagy said Geroe and Hegedues will be "called to account before the nation."

As complete victory appeared in the grasp of the anti-Russian, anti-Communist rebels, there were ominous reports of Soviet troops and several columns of Russian tanks moving on Budapest from southeastern Hungary.

Another report was that Soviet tank reinforcements were moving into Hungary from the Soviet Union through northeastern Hungary.

Dr. Zoltan Tildy, Hungarian President until the Communist takeover, followed Nagy to the microphone to announce that Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, convicted eight years ago of anti-state activities, would be restored fully to his office as primate of Hungary.

In his address, Premier Nagy appealed to the people to stand behind the "national government." He assured them that all the wrongs which had occurred since 1945 would be put right.

REBEL STRONGHOLD

Fighting slacked off at the Maia Terezia barracks, a rebel strongpoint in a week of civil war. Insurgents who had held out against Soviet tank fire marched out defiantly this morning and announced they would not put down their arms until the Russians have left Budapest.

Five Soviet tanks were still parked about 500 yards from the barracks. The government controlled radio had promised the Russians would start pulling back to their Hungarian bases at 9 a.m. "after insurgent forces start surrendering their arms." That hour passed without confirmation of any general withdrawal.

Ottawa Studies Ban on Jets For Israelis

OTTAWA — Israel's invasion of Egypt has brought a reaction of shocked dismay in Canadian government circles, prompting Prime Minister L. S. St. Laurent to confer with several of his ministers today to consider suspending shipments of Canadian jet fighters to Israel.

The government moved quickly as the whole Middle East threatened to explode into a shooting war. All Canadians in non-essential jobs in Egypt, Israel, Jordan and Syria were advised to move out.

Ike Stops Politicking To Deal With Crisis

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower today cancelled his scheduled campaign trip to the southwest and south Wednesday because of the Middle East crisis.

Mr. Eisenhower was to have made airport speeches at Dallas, Tex., Oklahoma City, Okla., and Memphis, Tenn., Wednesday. But he telegraphed his supporters at all three cities and said he must remain at the White House.

"The turn of events yesterday leaves me no option, in the interest of working for peace, but to remain at the White House Wednesday to deal with the situation developing in the Middle East," Mr. Eisenhower said.

Monday night in a sharp attack on Eisenhower, Democratic candidate Adlai Stevenson charged that President Eisenhower's previous reports of "good news" from the Israeli-Egyptian area "have been ish-French move."

Action Taken Before Expiry of Ultimatum

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Eden announced tonight that Anglo-French "token" forces will move into the Suez Canal zone even if Egypt and Israel accept an Anglo-French ultimatum to quit fighting before 8.30 p.m. (Victoria Time) tonight.

(At Cairo President Nasser of Egypt told the British Ambassador that Britain's ultimatum is "unacceptable under any circumstances.")

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain and France today warned Israel and Egypt to withdraw their military forces 10 miles from the Suez Canal within 12 hours or Anglo-French troops would move into the zone "in whatever strength may be necessary to secure compliance."

British Prime Minister Eden revealed to a tense House of Commons that the warnings were sent to Tel Aviv and Cairo after his meeting here at noon with French Premier Guy Mollet.

. . . 'Will Intervene'

Eden also disclosed that Britain and France had asked Egypt to agree that Anglo-French forces should in any case move temporarily to key positions in the canal zone.

Eden said the communications to Israel and Egypt also called upon them to "stop all warlike action by land, sea and air forthwith." He said the two governments had been asked to reply "by the early hours tomorrow morning" but, he added, "I hope they will reply tonight."

A foreign office spokesman said the ultimatum will expire at 4.30 a.m. tomorrow (8.30 p.m. Tuesday, Victoria Time).

Eden also said that Israel assured the British ambassador in Tel Aviv Monday that Israeli forces would not attack Jordan.

Britain and France sent the 12-hour warning to Israel and Egypt less than 24 hours after the Israeli attack had been launched.

"It has been made clear to them that, if at the expiration of that time, one or both have not undertaken to comply with these requirements, British and French forces will intervene in whatever strength may be neces-

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Hotel Groups Split Over Beer Profits

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—The activities of what was called "another group in recent convention" was criticized here Monday by Fred Evans of Vancouver, president of the Hotel Operators and Innkeepers' Society of British Columbia.

He said the group's activities, seeking public endorsement of their "never-ending pursuit of more beer profits," had brought the whole hotel industry into public ridicule."

The selling of beer was, to the true hotel operator, merely one department in his whole operation, said Mr. Evans. Costs had gone up, but under prevailing conditions there was a worthwhile profit in the operation of public house licences.

At a recent convention here members of the B.C. Hotelmen's Association urged, because of high operating costs, a smaller beer glass to offset the higher costs.

The hotel operators and innkeepers' society represents 25 top hotels in the province, Mr. Evans said. It represents ownership of properties valued at more than $70,000,000.

Victoria Tug Gets New Tow In Pacific

The Victoria-based deep-sea salvage tug Ss. Sudbury today is outward bound, instead of homeward bound, far out in the Pacific, after reversing course to aid another towboat.

On Saturday, the Sudbury, owned by Island Tug & Barge, reached the Salvage Chief of Portland to aid her in towing a salvaged freighter, the Nozima Maru, to Japan.

Sudbury had been on her way back to this port after towing scrap steel to Japan. She had made about 2,000 miles of the return journey when she turned to the assistance of the Salvage Chief.

The Nozima Maru was sunk by bombing during the Second World War, near Kiska. The crew of the Portland tug raised her, but found difficulty making headway with the heavy tow, and messaged for assistance.

MIDDLE EAST CRISIS LEGAL TANGLE

(AP and UP Dispatches)

LONDON — Under Egypt's 1954 agreement with Britain for evacuation of the Suez Canal zone, Britain has the right to reoccupy her former zone bases in case the waterway and Egypt itself are threatened by attack.

But the two agreed, outside the published text of the treaty, that the clause would be invoked only in case of an attack by the Soviet Union.

The legal authority that would permit Britain to reoccupy its Suez Canal bases is contained in article 4 of the Anglo-Egyptian agreement.

It says: "In the event of an armed attack by an outside power on any country which . . . is a party to the Arab League states treaty of defence of 1950, or on Turkey, Egypt shall afford to Britain such facilities as may be necessary in order to place the base on a war footing and to operate it effectively."

An authoritative source said Britain fully stands by the letter and spirit of a 1950 American-British-French declaration on the Middle East and is prepared to join the U.S. and France in implementing it.

The declaration binds the Western Big Three immediately to "take action both within and without the United Nations" to prevent any Israeli or Arab violation of Middle East frontiers or armistice lines.

Egypt theoretically could call on the Big Three Western powers for help. But Egypt never recognized the 1950 declaration and might feel too politically proud to make such a call.

Reeve Lauds Chief On Retirement Eve

CHIEF JOSIAH BULL
. . . retires Nov. 22

Retiring Saanich police chief Josiah Bull Monday night was granted five weeks' leave of absence with full pay by Saanich police commissioners who paid tribute to his 26 years of service with the force.

Chief Bull will begin his retirement Nov. 22.

"I'm sure all citizens appreciate the service he has given."

The reeve was joined by commissioners George Askey and Stanley Eden, who said Chief Bull "has always done a good job and always been a faithful servant of Saanich."

QUEBEC (CP) — Defence Minister Campney said Monday the estimated cost of the mid-Canada radar warning line has risen by $30,000,000 to an estimated $200,000,000.

Mr. Campney said construction of the mid-Canada line probably is the most important single event which has taken place in recent years in Canadian aviation.

sary to secure compliance," Eden said.

Eden said that Israeli forces had penetrated deep into Egyptian territory and reports had been received indicating that paratroops had been dropped.

"I must tell the House that very grave issues are at stake and unless hostilities can quickly be stopped free passage through the canal will be jeopardized."

. . . Stop All War Action

Eden said the British and French governments have agreed everything possible should be done to bring hostilities to an end as quickly as possible.

Eden said that in the communications to the governments of Egypt and Israel the British and French governments "called upon both sides to stop all warlike action by land, sea and air forthwith and to withdraw their military forces to a distance of 10 miles from the canal."

The prime minister's announcement was greeted with cheers.

Russia, U.S. Denounce Israel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia and the United States joined today in demanding that the UN Security Council order the immediate withdrawal of Israeli forces from Egyptian territory.

At the same time, Russia called on the council to warn Britain and France against any military intervention in the Israeli-Egyptian conflict.

Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev read a news dispatch from London saying Britain and France had agreed their forces would occupy key positions in the Suez Canal area unless Israel and Egypt stop fighting within 12 hours.

This, Sobolev said, was a pretext for sending their troops into the area.

U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. appealed to all countries to refrain from giving Israel any assistance, but he did not refer specifically to the British-French move.

The delegates, one after the other, denounced Israel's action as clear-cut aggression and urged the council to act quickly to end the fighting.

Egyptian Ambassador Omar Loutfi called the Israeli attack a premeditated move designed to "bring about war" in the Middle East. He demanded that Israel be expelled from the UN.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban said he wanted to reserve his right to speak later. He said:

"I am still at this moment without complete information on the course of these operations and information from Jerusalem is reaching me at this time."

Lodge told the council the U.S. would present a formal proposal at another meeting of the council this afternoon calling for an immediate end of the hostilities and withdrawal of the Israeli forces.

He appealed to all members of the council to refrain from giving Israel any assistance or from taking "advantage of the situation for any selfish interest."

"Failure of the council to react at this time," Lodge said, "would be a clear avoidance of its responsibilities for the maintenance of international peace and security."

Jordan formally urged the council to end the fighting. At the same time, Jordan warned that it would go to the aid of Egypt in fulfillment of its treaty obligations.

The United Nations, which requested the council meeting, was reported considering asking UN members to take major economic and diplomatic reprisals against the Israelis.

State Secretary Dulles asked France and Britain to join in seeking council action. The Western Big Three, under a 1950 declaration, are joint guarantors of the Arab-Israeli demarcation lines.

The British informant said Prime Minister Eden's government was standing fully by the letter and spirit of the 1950 declaration, and was ready to join the United States and France in implementing it. To aid the Egyptians, Britain has available the air, land and sea forces she rushed to the eastern Mediterranean when President Nasser seized the Suez Canal.

Officials hoped Israel might back down before counter-attacks by Jordan, Egypt and othe rcountries turn the limited fighting into a full-scale conflict.

Alarmed authorities conceded, however, that it might already be too late to patch up the jittery peace between Israel and

Earlier, a two-pronged attack from Kuntilla and the head of the Gulf of Aqaba, far to the south, had been reported without confirmation to have driven almost across the peninsula to within 18½ miles of the Suez Canal.

Planes Downed

A Cairo communique said that the Egyptian Air Force shot down two Israeli aircraft, destroyed 12 Israeli armored cars and strafed Israeli troops.

These attacks were said to have taken place at El Themed, 30 miles inside Egypt from the Kuntilla jump-off point, and against Israeli troops "before the Egyptian position at Quasaima."

Tel Aviv military spokesmen announced that the Israeli Air Force also had gone into action and had attacked Egyptian convoys.

Israeli's 1,800,000 population faced a blackout tonight.

The Syrians also were reported by Damascus newspapers to have ordered a state of general mobilization. Anti-aircraft guns were erected in the Syrian capital.

region, asked the rebels why they were still fighting in the capital on the seventh day of the revolt after repeated offers of amnesty from the Nagy government.

"We are not interested in anything but that the Russkies should go home," came the unanimous reply.

Most of the insurgents in the area were youths around 20. Armed with only antiquated rifles, sub-machine-guns, and home-made gasoline bombs, they were able to hold out against the tank attacks because of their knowledge of the battleground. When the Russian fire grew too heavy, the rebels vanished into the maze of streets too narrow for tanks to penetrate.

With the Budapest holdouts were an unknown number of deserters from the Hungarian Army.
